Mughal, Sinthan Roads Open For Traffic After Two Years

Press Trust Of India

SRINAGAR: The historic Mughal and Sinthan roads, connecting Kashmir valley to Poonch-Rajouri and Chenab Valley regions respectively, were thrown open for vehicular traffic on Monday after remaining closed for nearly two years following the abrogation of Jammu and Kashmir's special status in August 2019.

"Light motor vehicles as well as heavy motor vehicles were allowed to ply on Mughal road on Monday. The road was re-opened for civilian movement after two years," an official said.

The historic Mughal road connects Shopian in south Kashmir to Poonch and was the route used by the Mughal kings to reach Kashmir.

The Sinthan-Kokernag road, which connects Anantnag district to Kishtwar, was also opened for civilian traffic.

The roads were closed on August 4, 2019 as a precautionary measure as the Centre abrogated Article 370 that provided special status to Jammu and Kashmir while bifurcating the then state into two union territories.

The opening of the roads comes four days after Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha made an announcement to this effect.

Afghan endgame

Ever since the United States and the NATO forces announced their withdrawal from Afghanistan by September this year, The Taliban's march through the war-torn country has been gaining momentum. In recent weeks many more districts have fallen under Taliban control. The Taliban now rule roughly a third of all 421 districts and district centres in Afghanistan. On Sunday, the Taliban's strides in Badakhshan province forced several hundred fleeing Afghan forces to cross over into Tajikistan.

This has created a grim situation. Afghanistan seems very likely edging towards yet another spell of a devastating civil war. And at the rate at which Taliban seem to be advancing, it looks but certain that they may once again take over the country in the near to medium term. And such a prospect could once again confront India and Pakistan with serious security challenges. One solution for this would have been for the two neighbours to talk to each other to resolve their issues. This would have included cooperating on Afghanistan. As of now, the two countries are working at cross-purposes. Pakistan wants a pro-Islamabad regime in Kabul to achieve its goal of strategic depth as a cushion against India. India, on the other hand, seeks a pro-New Delhi government to deny Pakistan this advantage.

There are several factors at play: One is the larger geopolitics of the region with the progress of the war in Afghanistan at its core. The unfolding situation in Kabul, where the Taliban are now dominant has suddenly reduced India's capacity to influence the outcome in the country. Accordingly, Pakistan is suddenly in a greater position of leverage. The long-standing rivalry and suspicion between the two nations make the matters worse. It persuades them to act at cross-purposes in Kabul. And they would continue to do so until they reach an understanding between themselves.

It is in this context that the recent back-channel dialogue between them had raised some hopes. The dialogue had generated more hopes when the two countries reaffirmed their 2003 ceasefire agreement along the Line of Control in February. But ever since the talks seem to have unraveled. The two governments have obviously failed to act, consolidate and build upon the process. As things stand, this could only further complicate the security situation in the region. Hence the urgent need for them to return to engagement.

The challenge before the two countries is not only to establish a dialogue to address their mutual issues but also to bring their divergent policies and positions on Afghanistan in line. With stakes in Kabul getting bigger and bigger with every passing day, much hinges on how the neighbours are able to handle and steer their relationship in the weeks and months to come.

Battling Inflation

India was lucky last year with the monsoon, which enabled the farm sector to grow even amid a pandemic-induced economic contraction. The bumper harvests also ensured that soaring international food prices from around October didn't translate into higher domestic inflation, barring in import-dependent commodities such as edible oils and, to an extent, pulses. India's annual consumer food inflation in May, at 5 per cent, stood way below the corresponding global rate of 39.7 per cent. This year, however, looks to be different. While rainfall was 74 per cent above normal in May and 33 per cent in the first half of last month, the southwest monsoon has since stalled. There has been no advance of its northern limit after June 19 and the India Meteorological Department (IMD) sees no favourable conditions for revival in the next 4-5 days.

That is bad news. Mid-June to mid-July is the peak season for kharif plantings. Punjab is witnessing power outages now, as the state government is diverting supplies to farmers who are struggling to keep their transplanted paddy crop alive. They may be luckier compared to farmers in other states, where the extended dry spell has delayed sowings of not only paddy (which requires continuous standing water for 40-50 days after transplanting of seedlings), but also pulses, oilseeds and coarse cereals. The Rs 16-17 per litre increase in diesel prices is a double-whammy. For most farmers, who have no three-phase electric tubewell connections or solar pumps, irrigation using diesel engines is simply unaffordable today. A lot, then, hinges on the monsoon reviving sooner than later. One can only hope that the "negative" Indian Ocean Dipole conditions — the abnormal warming of sea waters off Australia and Indonesia, causing increased cloud-formation activity there at the expense of the ocean's western part closer to India — do not intensify during July-September, as many global weather agencies are predicting. Even the IMD has pointed to that possibility in its July 1 forecast update.

A Tale of Two Communities

Muhammad Tahir

While there are forces that seek to harm the Muslim-Sikh relations to consolidate their ideological project, there are also brave voices of moderation and resistance which seek to build a society based on fairness and justice and create solidarities across caste, religion and gender

As the dust settles, it has become clear that the Zoya (Manpreet Kaur) affair was an orchestrated political drama whose purpose was to polarize communities and prepare ground for the upcoming elections in Punjab and Delhi. This was Shiromani Akali Dal's experiment with the right-wing model of electoral success. The main protagonist of this political drama flew from New Delhi with a bunch of his supporters, sat in a protest in Srinagar against a fabricated case of forcible conversion of Sikh girls and went away, for his supporters, as savior of the Sikh community.

No doubt the Delhi Sikh leader got a lot of political mileage out of the Manmeet Kaur affair. But while he made a triumphant return to Delhi — parading gloomy Manpreet (Zoya) before the media and declaring victory "against forced Nikah and Conversions happening in Kashmir", he and his supporters left behind them a trail of ill-feelings. By invoking the bogey of 'Love Jihad' and resorting to Islamophobic tropes and remarks, the Delhi Sikh leader and his supporters (from outside and within Kashmir) have inflicted damage on the cordial relations between Muslims and Sikhs in Kashmir. In one stroke, the political opportunists have sowed seeds of mistrust between the two communities who have for long maintained inter-community harmony and solidarity because they both have been at the receiving end of the majoritarian state.

When the case of two Sikh women emerged for the first time around 28 June, there were discussions on the Club House on the issue. I found some of my Kashmiri Muslim friends and acquaintances trying to reason out with the members of the Sikh community, assuring them of unconditional support and solidarity. 'We stand with our Sikh brethren' was a common refrain/hashtag in many social media posts of Kashmiri Muslim netizens, who reminded each other that Sikhs supported and helped in February 2019 when Kashmiri Muslims were targeted in Indian cities and towns and we must reciprocate at this moment, though full details of the case were not known. On 29 June, social activist Mohammed Afaaq Sayeed wrote in his Facebook post, "I reiterate, we stand in solidarity with our Sikh brethren. Their daughters are our daughters. We as a society shall never allow anyone to exploit their daughters." He and other social media influencers also extended their solidarity to Sikh community directly on Club House and at the same time cautioned against outside elements who were trying to create a wedge between the two communities.

Club House discussions were fruitful to some extent. I heard a diasporic Sikh acknowledging that his misconceptions were cleared through direct communication with Kashmiri Muslims on CH where he was apprised of the facts of the case. That was the good part of the story. But the bad part was that some heated arguments were also exchanged when discussion veered off to religion and history, and when a few Sikhs made objectionable remarks. Soon a CH room was created with the name "Unapologetically Muslim". The moderators of this room emphasized that solidarity was a two-way process, and it was not acceptable that despite offering solidarity and support some members of the Sikh community continue to indulge in Islamophobia and parrot the right-wing narratives by targeting Kashmiri Muslims. So, through a few political opportunists, the Sangh successfully managed to trigger ill-feelings between the two communities which soon boiled over into a series of vicious exchanges.

Nonetheless, while Sirsa and the gang hogged the limelight (with the help of right-wing aligned electronic media), there were voices from within the Sikh community who understood the larger political game and took a stand against Sirsa's communal politics and politicization of a marriage between individuals belonging to two different faiths. On 30 June, Khushhal Singh, general secretary of Kendri Singh Sabha (KSS), an organization of Sikh intellectuals, took exception to Sikh leaders in Delhi intentionally stoking "a religious frenzy over the issue." On 2 July, KSS issued another statement where the organization called out Delhi Sikh leaders for becoming willing instruments of the Sangh's sectarian agenda. The KSS statement criticized the involvement of the Jathedar in the issue and said that "Most Sikhs feel their religious sensibilities have been hurt as some self-proclaimed Delhi Sikh leaders aligned with the ruling BJP made the Jathedar write the letter which fits into the Sangh Parivar's political programme of projecting a certain minority as an 'aggressor' and pitting other minorities against that."

Jagmohan Singh Raina, president of All Parties Sikh Coordination Committee, also condemned Delhi Sikh leaders, whom he accused of using Kashmiri Sikhs for elections. Describing Kashmir as a sensitive state, he cautioned against politicizing the issue which can burn Kashmir once again. In a press statement on 30 June, he said "The Sikh community in Jammu and Kashmir has been living in harmony with the majority Muslim community. Over the years many attempts were made to create a wedge between the two communities by the vested interests. However, the nefarious designs got defeated due to the strong bond that exists between the two communities."

While Raina displayed moderation and condemned communal politics, his twin demands of implementing Inter-Caste Marriage Act and Anti-Conversion Law in Jammu and Kashmir was problematic. His rationale was that these laws "would stop the forcible conversion of people belonging to any religion whatsoever." This statement implies that there were forcible conversions in J&K. But is there any evidence to back up the claim? Also, has he weighed in the implications of these laws for Muslims who are the target of the right-wing? At present, three BJP-ruled states have promulgated anti-conversion law which criminalizes conversion during marriage: Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh and Himachal Pradesh. Is it too difficult to understand which particular community is the target of this law? Is it not clear what they imply when the law is projected as anti-Love Jihad?

In her investigative report published in The Print (12 Jan 2021), Ananya Bhardwaj shows that under Uttar Pradesh Prohibition of Unlawful Conversion of Religion Ordinance 2020, "86 people have been booked in 16 cases involving allegations of conversion for love or marriage among Hindus and Muslims. In all, 54 people have been arrested — including friends and family members of the main accused. The key accused in all the cases are Muslims."

Senior advocate and executive director of Centre for Law and Policy Research, Jayna Kothari, has termed UP's anti-conversion law as "draconian" and violative of fundamental rights because it imposes onerous requirements on the couples who seek inter-faith marriage. Another problematic aspect of the anti-conversion laws (currently in operation in BJP-ruled states) is that they put burden of proof on persons who facilitated the conversion. In case a magistrate is not satisfied with the proof, the facilitators or those who caused the conversion can be booked for criminal offence. Facilitators could mean family members, friends, relatives, a religious cleric who solemnized the marriage or the conversion. Thus, asking for a law that could potentially be used against a specific community is not wise.

Raina's demand for Inter-caste Marriage Act has been criticized by some members of the Sikh community. Research scholar Preetika Nanda wrote on her Facebook: "Kashmiri Sikh leaders are now demanding an anti-conversion law and inter-caste marriage act to uphold caste endogamy which is in direct contravention of Sikh ethos and principles. Ironically, they want new laws but refuse to accept a woman's statement in Court." Similarly, National Vice-President of All India Students' Association, Kawalpreet Kaur, has termed the demand for anti-conversion and inter-caste marriage act as "obnoxious, unjust and inhuman." She further wrote on Twitter (2 July) that those asking for inter-caste marriage act are doing "major disservice by going against its [Sikhism's] fundamental tenants of casteless society. Sikhism doesn't believe in Caste."

While there are forces that seek to harm the Muslim-Sikh relations to consolidate their ideological project, there are also brave voices of moderation and resistance which seek to build a society based on fairness and justice and create solidarities across caste, religion and gender. The fascists will try to sow discord, pit communities against each other and exploit situations to justify their ideological project, those on the right side of history will resist in multiple ways. There are genuine grievances of Kashmiri Sikhs that must be heard and addressed, but one thing needs to be understood: the binary of majority-minority does not follow neatly in the context of Kashmir. Muslims despite being in numerical majority do not possess any real power. The power lies elsewhere, in New Delhi. New Delhi is the majority. Muslims have been politically disempowered, subjected to an array of unjust laws and legislations. Any new law that contributes to their further marginalisation and persecution (from the backdoor) should be resisted and opposed by those who believe in justice. In the future, if origination of any unjust law is traced to the demands of the Sikh community, that is bound to create hard-feelings among those who are at the receiving end of that unjust law.

Response to Red Cross Forced Donations Report

This in regards to the report published by Kashmir Observer titled, "Admin faces flak for forced Red Cross Donations in Kashmir". We are thankful to your organisation for highlighting this issue.

This has been a nuisance since weeks now. Even people following SOPs are being forced to pay donations. One wonders, why everything is about coercion here. Be it forced vaccination to forced donations, nobody seems to care about educating, empowering and just policies.

It is my request to your organisation, to keep highlighting this issue till it is resolved completely.

‘TURKISH’ Tastemaker in Wazwan Town

In the heartland of Kashmiri Wazwan makers, a native is trying to create his niche as a Turkish tastemaker.

Auqib Javeed

The Pandemic Lockdown came as a spoiler for Shadab. But once the viral wave thawed, he opened the padlock, dusted his birthplace, and started what has now become ‘Kardesler: The Kashmir Café’ (Kardesler, in Turkish, means brother)

THE window that once opened into the “Venice of East” now offers a bustling sight on a bludgeoned blacktop privy to Kashmir’s polemic past. But while the scene stays static, both Nallamar and its showmen have long proceeded as legends in the political amphitheater of the valley. However, the lasting signs—like a clan of classic goldsmiths—continue to make it a “Jewel Street” of Kashmir.

Watching this old-world charm enhanced by the pigeon-lofted heritage houses in his hometown, a native who recently returned with a new-age avatar gets alerted by another order at his door.

In the busy stretch of Old Srinagar, between Bohri Kadal and Saraf Kadal, Shadab Chashoo, 29, has lately established himself as a new tastemaker.

The tall and handsome man has set up his eatery in the place where the raging spark would mostly discourage many to go for branding based on a popular culture.

But the native whose family moved from the place during Kashmir’s tumultuous years not only returned, but demonstrated a steely resolve to introduce popular culture in his café.

Inspired by the Turkish television show Dirili: Ertu rul, Shadab has started his own café and restaurant based on the Ertugrul theme in Downtown. The decision, he says, was driven by his belief of serving the tastes with a difference.

Inside the café, the epic drama’s characters have become a wall of fame. A throne, Turgut bay’s iconic axe, flags of Kayi tribe, Turkish lights and swords are uplifting the dramatic mood.

“The idea was to create that feel,” Shadab, a man of few words, says. “At the end of the day, whatever initiative one is taking has to have a certain distinct feel and flavour.”

That feel and flavour might be barely a couple of fortnights old, but the downtown—long awaiting a popular culture based hangout place—has already started responding to the native’s cause.

“The response is overwhelming,” Shadab says, while helping his staff to ensure a timely delivery of online orders. “Most of the time, I myself act as a delivery boy.”

But creating a niche in the old city — that takes a certain pride for housing some finest Wazwan chefs of Kashmir — doesn’t appear to be a cakewalk for the native son. At a stone’s throw from his café, there live some legendary Wazas by the name of Khosas and Bandaris, besides an entire neighbourhood of chefs called Wazpora.

“People have a sense of taste here,” Shadab says. “So, in a way, it’s a bit challenging, but I’m up for it.”

But unlike others getting swayed by the new-age café wave around the city of seven bridges, Shadab has an advantage of a spry street housing some top merchants and their full of go clientele.

Prior to this theme-based café, the area was merely known for the celebrated ice-cream sellers of Bohri Kadal and some random street barbeque stalls. It lacked a good eatery, especially for the family dining and special outings.

Before his return with a “business with difference” mindset, Shadab as a young boy had walked away from the place in 1995. In his new home in Srinagar’s Naseem Bagh, he soon lost his father to a critical disease. Along with his mother and siblings, he lived a quintessential “life of uncertainty” in the valley.

Shadab again sits on the window where his forefathers used to watch Nallamar meandering through the heritage city. But unlike others, he doesn’t seem nostalgic about it. He’s only eager about striking some fresh change. “At the end of the day all glories fade away with time,” he smiles. “But that shouldn’t stop us from creating new ones.”

By the time he joined Islamia College, he would make rounds of his birthplace and often wonder about the ways to infuse a new life in what had then become a rundown residence. After an MBA degree and a job stint in Pune, Shadab decided to revive his roots.

But even then, there was no clarity about what to do with that ancestral piece of property before New Delhi enforced communication clampdown in the valley.

“As everything was shut after the abrogation of Article 370 in August 2019, I along with my friends once went for a pizza outing,” Shadab, sitting on the window of his ancestral house turned trendy café, says. “We ended up visiting a small pizza shop in a very narrow lane in Srinagar. The idea struck me there that if this man can run his business in that small space and during such a challenging time when everything had come to a grinding halt in Kashmir, I can also do that.”

But his resolve still needed a eureka moment. It came when he saw his cousins, friends and acquaintances consuming Turkish drama at length during lockdown.

“I thought, why not to start something on the theme which had suddenly become a pan-Kashmir lockdown engagement,” Shadab recalls. “It had a huge fan-base, especially among youth delivering the Turkish warrior series to each other through pen-drives amid internet blockade.”

The series featuring Ertugrul Ghazi, warrior and father of Ottoman Empire founder Osman, depicts the struggles, tyranny, oppression, suffering, identity and justice of Kayi, a minor group of Turkish tribe of 2,000 people.

However, the pandemic lockdown came as a spoiler for Shadab. But once the viral wave thawed, he opened the padlock, dusted his birthplace, and started what has now become ‘Kardesler: The Kashmir Café’ (Kardesler, in Turkish, means brother.)

Apart from Turkish theme, the young café owner is also introducing the Turkish taste in his hometown.

“Things just got delayed because of this second viral wave,” he says. “We’re introducing Turkish dishes soon on our platter to create a distinct flavour.”

Once confirming some quick online orders, Shadab again sits on the window where his forefathers used to watch Nallamar meandering through the heritage city. But unlike others, he doesn’t seem nostalgic about it. He’s only eager about striking some fresh change.

“At the end of the day all glories fade away with time,” he smiles. “But that shouldn’t stop us from creating new ones.”

Board exams 2022: CBSE announces special assessment scheme, two term-end exams to be conducted

Agenceis

New Delhi: Bifurcating the academic session, holding two term-end exams and rationalising the syllabus were part of the special assessment scheme for class 10 and 12 board examinations in 2021-22 announced by the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) on Monday in view of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The term one exams will be conducted by the Board in November-December, 2021 while the second term exams will be conducted in March-April, 2022, as per an official order by Joseph Emmanuel, Director (Academic) of the CBSE.

The syllabus for the board examination will be rationalised, similar to that of the last academic session, and will be notified in July 2021, it said and also announced plans to make the internal assessment and project work more "credible" and "valid".

At the end of the first term, the board will organise exams in a flexible schedule between November-December 2021 with a window period of 4-8 weeks for schools situated in different parts of the country and abroad.

"The exams will have Multiple Choice Questions (MCQ) including case-based MCQs and MCQs on assertion-reasoning type. Duration of test will be 90 minutes and it will cover only the rationalised syllabus of the first term. The question papers will be sent by the CBSE to schools along with the marking scheme.

"The exams will be conducted under the supervision of the external center superintendents and observers appointed by CBSE. The responses of students will be captured on OMR sheets which, after scanning may be directly uploaded at the CBSE portal or alternatively may be evaluated and marks obtained will be uploaded by the school on the very same day," he added.

At the end of the second term, the board would organise Term II or year-end examination based on the rationalised syllabus.

"This examination would be held around March-April 2022 at the examination centres fixed by the board. The paper will be of two hours duration and have questions of different formats (case-based/situation based, open ended-short answer/ long answer type).

"In case the situation is not conducive for normal descriptive examination a 90-minute MCQ-based exam will be conducted at the end of the second term also," Emmanuel said.

The CBSE has decided that in case the situation of the pandemic improves and students are able to come to schools or centres for taking the exams, the board would conduct Term I and II examinations at schools or centres and the theory marks will be distributed equally between the two exams.

Airlines can operate maximum of 65 pc pre-Covid domestic flights: Govt

Agenceis

New Delhi: Airlines can now operate a maximum of 65 per cent of their pre-Covid domestic flights instead of the 50 per cent allowed till date, the civil aviation ministry said on Monday.

The carriers have been operating only 50 per cent of their pre-Covid domestic flights since June 1 in accordance with a May 28 order of the ministry. Before June 1, the cap was at 80 per cent.

The May 28 decision to bring down the cap from 80 to 50 per cent was taken "in view of the sudden surge in the number of active COVID-19 cases across the country, decrease in passenger traffic and the passenger load (occupancy rate) factor", the ministry had said.

It issued a fresh order on Monday, wherein it modified the May 28 order stating that "50 per cent capacity may be read as 65 per cent capacity".

Gupkar Alliance

Jammu and Kashmir and said assembly elections must only be held once this is done.

The PAGD is an alliance of six mainstream parties -- National Conference, Peoples' Democratic Party, CPM, CPI, Awami National Conference and Jammu and Kashmir People's Movement -- that was cobbled after the Centre abrogated the special status of the erstwhile state of Jammu and Kashmir on August 5, 2019 and divided it into two union territories (UTs).

"To this end (restoration of statehood to J-K), the People's Alliance for Gupkar Declaration has decided to reach out to other political parties in Jammu and Kashmir with a view to take a common position on the issue," PAGD spokesperson and CPM leader M Y Tarigami said in a statement.

The PAGD issued the statement after holding an emergency meeting late on Sunday night at the residence of its chairperson and former Jammu and Kashmir chief minister Farooq Abdullah.

The PAGD meeting, which was called to discuss the all-party meeting with PM Modi held in Delhi, came a day before the visit of the Delimitation Commission to the Kashmir valley. The commission headed by retired Supreme Court judge Ranjana Desai along with Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Sushil Chandra and J-K's chief electoral officer will hold meetings with representatives of political parties in Kashmir and Jammu starting Tuesday.

"All the members of the PAGD expressed their disappointment at the outcome of the Delhi meeting especially at the absence of any substantial Confidence Building Measures such as releasing political and other prisoners from jails and taking concrete steps to end the siege and atmosphere of suppression that has choked JK since 2019," the PAGD statement said.

It said the confidence building measures would have initiated the much-needed process of reaching out to the people of Jammu and Kashmir, who are the biggest stakeholders and sufferers.

On the abrogation of Jammu and Kashmir's special status by the Centre and its subsequent bifurcation into two UTs, the PAGD reiterated its commitment to fight together to reverse the unconstitutional and unacceptable changes "foisted" on the people of the erstwhile state "using all constitutional, legal and political means at its disposal".

"The PAGD's struggle for undoing these changes will continue as long as it takes while striving to achieve this objective as early as possible," it said.

As far as the restoration of statehood is concerned, the PAGD said, it has been the BJP's commitment on the floor of Parliament and it must honour its word.

"So, any assembly election must be held only after the restoration of full statehood for JK," it added.

The PAGD's meeting was attended by its vice chairperson and PDP president Mehbooba Mufti, Tarigami, NC leader Hasnain Masoodi, People's Movement chief Javed Mustafa Mir and Awami National Conference senior vice president Muzaffar Ahmed Shah.

The June 24 meeting that was chaired by PM Modi was the first outreach by the Centre to the leaders of Jammu and Kashmir since the abrogation of the erstwhile state's special status. Fourteen leaders from eight different political parties including four chief ministers -- Abdullah, his son Omar, Mehbooba and Congress leader Gulam Nabi Azad -- had participated in the meeting.

Union Home Minister Amit Shah, National Security Advisor Ajit Doval and Union Home Secretary Ajay Bhalla were also present at the meeting PAGD 'Undecided' On are autonomous bodies and the respective political parties will decide over it. Whatever the parties think is suitable for them, they will take steps accordingly," PAGD spokesperson and CPI(M) leader M Y Tarigami told reporters here.

The delimitation commission has invited the leaders of all national, regional and registered political parties of Jammu and Kashmir for separate meetings during its visit to the Union Territory from Tuesday.

The commission, led by Justice (ret'd) Ranjana Prakash Desai, will undertake a four-day visit to Jammu and Kashmir from July 6-9 and interact with the leaders of political parties and officials to gather first-hand inputs on the conduct of the mega exercise to carve out new electoral constituencies in the Union Territory. (PTI)

Congress To Meet

it would send delegations to both Srinagar and Jammu to meet the commission, its spokesperson said.

Seven districts of Jammu region have been allotted one hour each while five districts of Kashmir half hour each, JKPC Chief spokesperson Ravinder Sharma said.

The commission should consider suggestions of the congress party in the larger interests and invite more suggestions and requests directly apart from routing through Deputy Commissioners (DCs) or District Education Officers (DEOs), he added.

The commission, which was constituted in March last year with a one-year time frame, should consider giving reasonable time and space to all, according to Sharma. (PTI) and the National Panthers Party (NPP) are indecisive about meeting the commission's members.

ECI Panel Arrives

People's Alliance for Gupkar Declaration (PAGD), an amalgam of six parties including the NC and the PDP, on Monday said no joint decision has been taken on taking part in the proceedings of the commission and it was left to the individual parties to decide whether they want to participate.

"As far as the PAGD is concerned, our stand is that these are autonomous bodies and the respective political parties will decide about it (participating in commission's meeting). Whatever the parties think is suitable for them, they will take steps accordingly," PAGD spokesperson and CPI(M) leader M Y Tarigami said.

The commission has invited the leaders of all national, regional and registered political parties of Jammu and Kashmir for separate meetings during its visit to the union territory.

J&K Pradesh Congress Committee (JKPC) has announced that it would send delegations to both Srinagar and Jammu to meet the commission, which was constituted in March last year with a one-year time frame.

Seven districts of the Jammu region have been allotted one hour each while five districts of Kashmir half hour each, JKPC chief spokesperson Ravinder Sharma said, adding that the commission should consider giving reasonable time and space to all.

The commission members are also likely to hold separate meetings with civil society groups and similar organisations after they obtain prior approval and are allotted time slots by their respective deputy commissioners (DCs).

During the June 24 meeting with 14 leaders from Jammu and Kashmir, PM Modi had said the delimitation exercise has to happen quickly so that polls can be held to install an elected government in the union territory that will give strength to its development trajectory.

The delimitation, therefore, has attained an urgency amid indications that the Centre is keen to hold early assembly elections in Jammu and Kashmir. There is speculation that the polls could be held in the next six to nine months.

Officials said the commission has asked JK chief electoral officer to ensure that representatives of each registered, national and regional political party are provided a separate time slot so that separate discussions can be held with each of them.

The commission will meet leaders of political parties in Srinagar on July 6 and in Jammu on July 8.

The three-member commission, with the JK CEO being the third member, will also hold separate interactions with the DCs, the officials said.

Earlier, the Delimitation Commission had said in a statement that during its visit, it will interact with political parties, public representatives and union territory administration officials including district election officers/deputy commissioners of 20 districts to gather first-hand

Sikh Bizman Leads

Article 370. We will be happy if Sikhs and Hindu community members coming to India from any part of the world can stay with us. We will ensure everything for them, including starting of their livelihood," the letter reads.

Besides, the delegation also demanded minority community status for the Sikhs of the Kashmir valley, "whose chairman should be from the Sikh community. We are only 1.5 Lakhs left with 60,000 registered voters from Sikh community which is spread to 6 districts and 135 villages."

Raina said his group manages about 135 gurdwaras in the valley, some of which are historical.

In view of the delimitation process currently underway in J&K, the delegation demanded reservations for two seats i.e. Baramulla and Srinagar/Tral for Kashmiri Sikhs in the assembly.

"We used to enjoy two seats in Poonch and Baramulla. Now Poonch has gone to Jammu. We requested Union Govt. to kindly reserve two Assembly seats Baramulla and Srinagar/Tral for Kashmiri Sikhs in the House," reads the demand letter.

They said they have maximum villages in these two districts and want to bring changes in their democratic strength.

In another demand, delegation demanded appointment with immediate effect a Sikh advisor to the J&K

Lieutenant Governor, who knows each and everything about Sikhs.

Another key demand made is that Awantipura airport be declared as "Baba Guru Nanak Dev Airport", as it is very close to Mattan Sahib Gurudwara, where the first Sikh Guru had come in 1516 AD and stayed for almost 12 days.

"Gurdwara Mattan Sahib should be declared as National Heritage and international flights should land at Awantipura for darshan of this gurdwara. The road between the airport and Gurudwara Mattan Sahib should be made a dedicated corridor through which Sikhs can come and develop markets, hotels. This area will become a major tourist hub as we expect major international tourist arrival on a daily basis who will definitely want to visit other places in valley and Jammu", read the letter.

The letter also sought "job reservation on an urgent basis to stop Sikh migration from Kashmir. In the last many years, no govt. in the state has given them jobs and due to which they are gradually shifting to other parts of the country and world."

"We also request you sir to kindly arrange a special recruitment drive from Central/State forces for valley Sikhs and formation of a local regiment on the lines of JAKLI for the Sikhs of Kashmir Valley, JK Sikh Light Infantry. "We know in and out of the valley and will make a significant change in the fight against terror in Kashmir," the letter reads.

It also urged the Centre to consider the appointment of the micro minorities living in Kashmir for the posts still vacant under the Prime Minister Relief package for migrants, of which more than 50% seats are still vacant.

"We lost 35000 Sikhs in Chhota near Baramulla on National Highway. That place should be demarcated and a National Monument should be built in that place," reads the letter, adding "Govt should make it compulsory to introduce Punjabi language in the study so that Sikh history can't be diluted."

Meanwhile, When Kashmir Observer contacted Baldev Singh Raina to know about the veracity of the letter, he feigned ignorance saying, he has no knowledge about the letter that is going viral on social media.

"Someone told me about the letter but I will have to check it before making any comment," he said.

Raina, however, categorically denied that the letter has to do anything with his recent meeting with the Home Minister.

Sinha Led Group

Valley during their three-day visit. "Tomorrow, we will be meeting people from south Kashmir. In the second half of the day, we will meet people from Srinagar and north Kashmir," Barve.

She further said that the group has frequently been visiting Jammu and Kashmir after government of India revoked the special status and split the state into two Union Territories.

The group has been critical of government's policies and have accused the Centre of making attempts to incubate artificial political processes in Jammu and Kashmir and implement domicile laws for the Union Territory by using lockdown as an opportunity.

Pertinently, CCG delegation's visit to Kashmir comes ten days after 14 political leaders from the Union Territory attended an all part meet convened by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in New Delhi on June 24 to discuss the future course of political action.

Nearly 2.5 Kg

installations in India on June 29.

Two IAF personnel were injured in the explosions that took place within six minutes of each other. The first blast ripped off the roof of a single-storey building at the technical area of the airport manned by the IAF in Satwari on the outskirts of Jammu. The second one was on the ground.

The probe by the investigators pointed to the involvement of LeT militants who were actively assisted by the Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI) of Pakistan in carrying out the covert operation, the officials said. They said the probe indicated that the drones with bombs, containing nearly 2.5 kgs RDX, came from across the border.

The aerial distance from the Jammu airport to the international border is 14 km.

The use of RDX in the explosion was confirmed by experts after samples from the scene were sent for examination. While one of the bombs was laced with 1.5 kg of RDX, the other contained nearly 1 kg of RDX, the officials said.

On July 2, Jammu and Kashmir Director General of Police (DGP) Dilbag Singh said the involvement of Pakistan in the drone attack cannot be ruled out as there is a strong suspicion about the role of LeT in it.

Singh had said the use of armed drones by Pakistan-based militants is a serious threat to the security system and there was a need to have a re-look at the security of vital places and persons.

"We have got very serious and strong suspicions that LeT is involved in this case... Since LeT is involved and the outfit is run from Pakistan, so in a way, Pakistan's involvement cannot be ruled out," the police chief had told reporters on the sidelines of a function in Kathua district.

To what extent Pakistani agencies are involved would be known only when the investigation proceeds further, he had said.

The DGP said over a dozen incidents had taken place earlier wherein the LeT was involved in dropping weapons, ready-made IEDs and narcotics using drones.

Singh said it is very much possible that the drones came from across the border.

"In the earlier drone droppings, the drones covered a distance of 10 to 15 km and the aerial distance of the Jammu airport (from the international border) is not more than that. The particular route which is suspected to have been taken by the drone if it had come from across (the border) also comes within the range of 15 km," he had said.

Singh said there have been incidents of drone droppings in Akhnour and Arnia on the outskirts of Jammu and Samba and the initial indications and questioning of people who have been caught pointed towards it.

Medical Superintendent of the hospital Yudhvir Singh said the cop have injury in his leg.

"Extra personnel of security forces have been deployed and search operation is going on as the area has been cordoned off," he added.

Few expect that favorite tag to change as Brazil gets ready for Monday's semifinal against Peru, a team that the Selecao thrashed 4-0 two weeks ago in the group stage.

The winner at the Nilton Santos Stadium in Rio de Janeiro will play Saturday's final at the historic Maracana Stadium against Argentina or Colombia, which play on Tuesday.

"It is obvious we are favourites for being at home, but we need to know how to deal with that," Brazil midfielder Fred said at a news conference on Sunday. "Players want to have the match of their lives against Brazil. The last one (beating Chile 1-0 in the quarterfinals) was tough, but the next will be tougher. Peru will be motivated, trying to win, it will be the match of their lives."

Brazil and Peru played in the 2019 Copa America final, with host Brazil winning 3-1 before nearly 70,000 fans. Monday's match will be played without fans due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Two key strikers won't be playing in the semifinal. Brazil's Gabriel Jesus and Peru's Andre Carrillo (against Paraguay) were sent off during the quarterfinals. Brazil's Everton, one of the top scorers at the 2019 Copa America edition, and veteran Christian Cueva are set to take their places.

Brazil advanced to the semifinals after a hard-fought win with 10 men for almost all of the second half against Chile.

Peru recovered from its 4-0 defeat against the hosts by beating Colombia and Venezuela and securing a draw with Ecuador. It reached the semifinals on penalties after a 3-3 draw with Paraguay.

"We will have the chance to face Brazil and correct all the things that went wrong in the first match," Peru coach Ricardo Gareca said. "Brazil continues to be a very powerful team, this Brazil is very good. Our team is also improving."

Alex Sandro, Neymar, Everton Ribeiro and Richarlison scored for Brazil against Peru.

Peru will look to striker Gianluca Lapadula, replacing its all-time top scorer Paolo Guerrero who missed the tournament due to a knee injury.

Brazil will once again count on Neymar, its best player in the tournament so far, who finished the clash against Chile in a state of exhaustion, along with many of his teammates.

Mary Kom, Manpreet Singh To Be India's Flag Bearers At Tokyo Olympics

Press Trust of India

NEW DELHI: Celebrated boxer M C Mary Kom and men's hockey team skipper Manpreet Singh will be the country's flag bearers at the opening ceremony of Tokyo Olympics, the Indian Olympic Association announced on Monday.

One of India's biggest medal hopes, wrestler Bajrang Punia, will be the flag bearer at the closing ceremony on August 8.

The IOA has communicated the decision in this regard to the organising committee of the Tokyo Games.

In a first, India is having two flag-bearers -- one male and one female -- at the upcoming Tokyo Games to ensure "gender parity". This was recently informed by IOA chief Narinder Batra.

"It would be a huge moment for me given that it is my last Olympics. Who knows I might even get emotionally overwhelmed," Mary Kom told PTI after being named as one of the flag bearers.

"I am truly honoured to get this opportunity of leading the team out during the opening ceremony and I thank the sports ministry and IOA for naming me. It would be added motivation for me. I promise to do my best for a medal," the six-time world champion added.

The country's lone individual Olympic gold-medallist Abhinav Bindra was the flag bearer at the opening ceremony of the 2016 Games in Rio de Janeiro.

The Tokyo Games are scheduled to open on July 23 and over 100 Indian athletes would be gunning for podium finishes at the showpiece, which was postponed by a year because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

At its executive board meeting last year, the International Olympic Committee had made provisions for flag-bearers from both genders at the opening ceremony.

"...the IOC Executive Board also decided that there should be for the first time ever at least one female and one male athlete in every one of the 206 teams and the IOC Refugee Olympic Team participating at the Games of the Olympiad," IOC chief Thomas Bach had said.

Djokovic Wins At Wimbledon For 50th Major Quarterfinal Berth

WIMBLEDON: Two-time defending champion Novak Djokovic held every service game Monday and reached his 50th Grand Slam quarterfinal by beating No. 17-seeded Cristian Garin at Wimbledon, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Djokovic earned his 12th quarterfinal berth at Wimbledon, which ties him with Arthur Gore for third place on the men's all-time list, behind Roger Federer's 18 and Jimmy Connors' 14.

Three men became first-time Wimbledon quarterfinalists, including No. 25 Karen Khachanov of Russia, who won a bizarre fifth set to beat American Sebastian Korda on his 21st birthday, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 10-8. With both players battling fatigue and nerves, there were 13 services breaks in the final set.

For Korda, it was a disappointing end to an otherwise impressive Wimbledon debut.

Khachanov will next face No. 10 Denis Shapovalov, who hit 15 aces and beat No. 8 Roberto Bautista Agut 6-1, 6-3, 7-5.

Khachanov and Shapovalov joined Wimbledon's final eight for the first time, as did No. 7 Matteo Berrettini, who became the first Italian man in 23 years to reach the quarterfinals by ousting Ilya Ivashka 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Top-ranked Ash Barty also became a first-time Wimbledon quarterfinalist when she beat French Open champion Barbora Krejčíková 7-5, 6-3. Barty was troubled again by a shaky serve but saved eight of 10 break points and did manage an ace on match point to end Krejčíková's 15-match win streak.

Barty has yet to play her best in the tournament but is the favorite to claim her second Grand Slam title. The Australian won the 2019 French Open and was the Wimbledon girls singles champion in 2011.

"I love coming out here and test myself against the best in the world," Barty told the crowd. "And there's certainly no place I'd rather be at the moment."

Ons Jabeur of Tunisia became the first Arab woman to reach the Wimbledon quarterfinals by rallying past 2020 French Open champion Iga Świątek 5-7, 6-1, 6-1. Jabeur, seeded 21st, converted all seven-break point chances. No. 2-seeded Aryna Sabalenka reached her first Grand Slam quarterfinal by defeating Elena Rybakina 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. No. 8 Karolina Plíšková hit 10 aces and eliminated Ludmila Samsonova 6-2, 6-3.

All 16 fourth-round matches for men and women were on the schedule to start the tournament's second week.

IPL Will Wear Out UAE Pitches Before T20 World Cup, Fears SA Coach Mark Boucher

Press Trust of India

NEW DELHI: The remainder of Indian Premier League being held in the United Arab Emirates will hugely affect the pitches, which might get worn out and help the spinners "massively" during ICC T20 World Cup, feels South Africa head coach Mark Boucher.

The 2021 IPL, which was suspended following COVID-19 cases inside the bio-bubble, will be completed in UAE, which will also host the T20 World Cup after the ICC decided to shift the showpiece event from India due to the unprecedented health crisis.

The second leg of the IPL is scheduled to be held from September 19 to October 15, while the T20 World Cup will begin on October 17.

"The wickets after the IPL are going to be a bit dry. It's not the same as we are used to back in South Africa where you can go out and bash your way to 180 to 200 runs. You've got to be skillful here; you've got to be smart," Boucher was quoted as saying in ESPNcricinfo.

"If anything, it's going to go even further into subcontinent conditions, on the extreme side. They are playing the IPL there, there are not a lot of grounds and those wickets are going to be worn, so scores will probably go even further down."

Boucher said batting will be tough on this pitches as spinners will hold the key.

"It's going to be tough to bat on especially at the back end as we saw here," said the South African.

"We will have an idea of what scores are going to be by watching the IPL and then taking a look and assess how the wickets are playing during the beginning part of the World Cup.

"I suspect spinners will play a massive role."

Left-arm wrist spinner Tabraiz Shamsi had claimed seven wickets as South Africa won a five-match T20I series against the West Indies 3-2 at the National Cricket Stadium in St George's, Grenada.

Mohammad Amir Needs Domestic Success For International Return: Waqar Younis

Agencies

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan bowling coach Waqar Younis feels it will be tough for paceman Mohammad Amir to make a comeback to international cricket without first impressing domestically.

Amir retired from international play last December, saying he was mentally tortured by his teammates and coaches. The left-arm fast bowler played in the recent Pakistan Super League with minimal success.

He reportedly met with Pakistan Cricket Board chief executive Wasim Khan earlier this year, leading to speculation of a return before the Twenty20 World Cup in October.

"No doubt he's a fine cricketer, but if he doesn't want to take his retirement back and impress selectors by playing cricket, it will be hard," Younis told reporters via videoconference from England on Monday.

"It's Pakistan cricket, it's not yours or my cricket (team), you have to do the right things to play for your country. This is not a franchise cricket and one got to remember that," Younis said he was not aware about any meeting between Khan and Amir.

"To be honest I didn't know about this (meeting)," he said. "He (Khan) is head of the cricket and he has every right to meet whosoever he wants to see; he went there in his personal capacity and we didn't know about it."

Amir played for Karachi Kings in the PSL, but could take only five wickets in 11 matches at an average of 69.80. Karachi was knocked out after losing both of their playoffs. Amir took 259 wickets across 36 Tests, 61 one-day internationals and 50 T20s. He was 18 when he was banned in 2010 for five years and jailed for three months for spot-fixing in a Test series in England. He was allowed to return to cricket a few months early and recalled by Pakistan in 2016.

In 2019 he no longer wanted to play Tests, to focus on white-ball cricket and prolong his international career. Amir's last international was in August 2020 in a T20 against England.

Euro 2020: Italy, Spain All Set To Take Unbeaten Runs Into Semifinals

Agencies

LONDON: Luis Enrique thought for a couple of seconds, looked straight back at the questioner, and gave the curtest of replies.

"No," said the Spain coach, with the blankest of looks on his face, after being asked if he had seen a better team than his at the European Championship.

An answer out of blind loyalty? Perhaps. Or was it the fact that Spain was the leading scorer at Euro 2020? Maybe.

Or the fact that La Roja is on an unbeaten streak stretching back to October, a run of 13 games? Quite possibly. Spain's opponent in the European Championship semifinals on Tuesday might have something to say about all that.

Italy, another of the continent's traditional powers, brings an even better run of form to Wembley Stadium -- a national-record 32 matches unbeaten, going all the way back to September 2018. From the moment tenor Andrea Bocelli cleared the field at Stadio Olimpico after his stirring rendition of "Nessun Dorma" at the opening ceremony, making way for the start of the tournament, the Italians have been right on the money.

Three impressive wins in the group stage, without conceding. A gutsy victory over a better-than-expected Austria in the round of 16. The elimination of top-ranked Belgium in the quarterfinals.

Maybe Luis Enrique isn't aware, but Italy is rolling at the moment.

This might be a match between teams who have almost forgotten what it feels like to lose -- Spain has only one defeat in its last 29 games -- but Italy looks to have the edge, at both ends of the field.

Much has changed since Roberto Mancini took charge in May 2018, with the team having evolved into a high-energy unit that presses hard and attacks at pace. But the Azzurri's defense needs little introduction.

Formidable center backs Leonardo Bonucci and Giorgio Chiellini are still holding the fort, like they have been for more than a decade, and Italy has conceded only two goals so far.

Spain's defense, on the other hand, is a work in progress while center back Aymeric Laporte integrates following his switch of nationality from France.

In attack, striker Alvaro Morata continues to frustrate for Spain and Luis Enrique has seemingly yet to settle on his preferred wingers. Italy, though, has had strong and reliable performances from striker Ciro Immobile and wide forward Lorenzo Insigne, the scorer of the decisive second goal against Belgium.

It's in midfield where Spain can seriously challenge Italy, potentially making it the department where the match could be won or lost. Jorginho, Nicola Barella and probably Marco Verratti for Italy versus Sergio Busquets, Pedri Gonzalez and Koke for Spain is a must-watch duel all by itself.

Neither team has made it this far in a major international competition since 2012, when they met in the European Championship final in Kyiv. Spain won that match 4-0. Two players remain from each country: Bonucci and Chiellini for Italy, and Jordi Alba and Busquets for Spain.

So while this is far from uncharted territory for two countries with nine European Championship or World Cup titles between them, it is for most of the players involved.

Expect the Spanish to have the majority of possession, but maybe by not as much as they are accustomed. And expect the Italians to launch quick counterattacks from turnover balls, seeking to get behind the aging Busquets and attack the soft center of Spain's defense.

A win for Spain, which has the youngest squad at the tournament, sets up the prospect of a third European Championship title in four editions and potentially the start of new period of success for a nation that dominated world soccer from 2008-12.

A win for Italy surely means Mancini's team would enter the final as the favorite, no matter who wins the second semifinal match between England and Denmark.
