Bleeding Gums May Indicate Vitamin C Deficiency

Agencies

f your gums bleed, make sure to improve your intake of vitamin C to reverse Letthe problem, a new study suggests.

The study, published in the journal Nutrition Reviews, shows that bleeding of the gums on gentle probing, or gingival bleeding tendency and also bleeding in the eye, or retinal haemorrhaging, were associated with low vitamin C levels in the bloodstream.

"When you see your gums bleed, the first thing you should think about is not, I should brush more. You should try to figure out why your gums are bleeding. And vitamin C deficiency is one possible reason," said lead author Philippe Hujoel from the University of Washington in the US.

For the study, the team analyzed published studies of 15 clinical trials in six countries, involving 1,140 predominantly healthy participants. The results showed that bleeding of the gums on gentle probing, or gingival bleeding tendency, and also bleeding in the eye, or retinal haemorrhaging, were associated with low vitamin C levels in the bloodstream. And, the researchers found that increasing daily intake of vitamin C in those people with low vitamin C plasma levels helped to reverse these bleeding issues. The researcher recommends people attempt to keep an eye on their vitamin C intake through incorporation of non-processed foods such as kale, peppers or kiwis into your diet, and if you can't find palatable foods rich in vitamin C to consider a supplement of about 100 to 200 milligrams a day.

India Ranks 86 Out Of 98 Nations In Covid Handling: Report

Agencies

NEW DELHI: With more than 11 million Covid-19 cases, India has ranked 86 in a performance index of 98 countries for their handling of the Covid-19 pandemic, a report said on Thursday.

According to the performance index compiled by the Sydneybased Lowy Institute, neighbouring Sri Lanka was in the 10th position in handling the Covid-19 outbreak.

The performance index showed that New Zealand handled the pandemic more effectively than any other country in the world, while Brazil sits at the bottom of the list. New Zealand was closely followed by Vietnam, Taiwan, Thailand and Cyprus, while the US was the fifth-worst performing country, The Sydney Morning Herald reported on Thursday.

In the report, the Lowy Institute revealed that smaller populations, cohesive societies and capable institutions were big factors in successfully dealing with the pandemic.

The study measured a number of key indicators, including confirmed cases, deaths, cases per million people and deaths per million people. China was not included in the study because all of its testing rates are not publicly available. With 11,666 new Covid-19 cases getting reported in the last 24 hours on Thursday, India has continued its streak of low single-day cases, even as the overall tally mounted to 1,07,01,193, health officials said.

For the past 21 days, the country has been recording less than 20,000 new infections daily. Also, the death toll remained below the 300-mark for the past 31 days.

On January 19, India had reported 10,064 new cases, the lowest so far this year. Last year, the lowest was recorded on June 3 at 9,633 cases. The nationwide immunisation drive began on January 16 after the approval of two Covid vaccines -- Covaxin and Covishield -- in the country. As many as 23,55,979 beneficiaries have received the first dose of Covid vaccine in the first phase so far.

Dubai Creates 'Space Court' For Out-Of-This-World Disputes

Dubai announced on Monday the creation of a "space court" to settle commercial disputes, as the UAE – which is also sending a probe to Mars – builds its presence in the space sector. The tribunal will be based at the Dubai International Financial Centre (DIFC) Courts, an independent British-inspired arbitration centre based on common law.

Space law is governed by international conventions and resolutions, including the UN Outer Space Treaty which entered into force in 1967. Several states have also signed bilateral or multilateral agreements to regulate their space activities. However, while until recently the field was almost exclusively the domain of nations and institutions, space has become a commercial issue involving more and more private companies.

"An integrated space industry, supported by human resources, infrastructure, and scientific research, is under way," Zaki Azmi, Chief Justice at DIFC Courts, said in a statement. "The Courts of

Space is a global initiative that will operate in parallel, helping to build a new judicial support network to serve the stringent commercial demands of international space exploration in the 21st century.'

Established in 2004, the DIFC Courts already draw many foreign companies to arbitrate their commercial disputes, but did not yet have courts specialised in the space activities of private companies. Azmi said that as space commerce becomes more global, the complex commercial agreements that govern them "will also require an equally innovative judicial system to keep pace".

The UAE, which takes in seven emirates including Dubai, has invested heavily in the space sector in recent years.

After sending its first astronaut into space in 2019, the country last year launched a probe named "Hope" towards Mars. It is due to reach its destination next week. "That was for us an eye opener that we need to provide the UAE with the right infrastructure [in case of disputes]," Amna Al Owais, Chief Registrar at DIFC Courts, told AFP. "We want to set the scene in terms of what courts can do. We believe that there will be a huge appetite for it," she said, citing as examples disagreements over satellite purchases or collisions between devices in space. Companies and institutions based both in the UAE and abroad will now have the option of agreeing to take grievances to the tribunal, with new contracts potentially specifying the new "space court" as the forum for resolving disputes. The oil-rich nation, whose colossal skyscrapers and mega-projects put it on the world map, hopes otherworldly new industries could be a boost to its economic future. It is also looking at other new frontiers – space tourism and mining – and has made plans to also help regulate those fledgling industries. No Image could see 15 inches (38 cm).

Erdogan Hints At Moves To Draft New Turkish Constitution

ANKARA; President Recep Tayyip Erdogan said on Monday it may be time for Turkey to adopt a new constitution, feeding speculation that he could seek a way to extend his rule.

Erdogan, 66, has governed Turkey as prime minister or president since 2002, cementing his control over the nation of 83 million people and surviving a failed coup.

As prime minister, he pushed through changes to the constitution in 2017 that created an executive presidency and abolished the premiership. He then won the 2018 presidential election, the first of two potential five-year terms. Turkey is scheduled to hold parliamentary and presidential elections in 2023, meaning that his rule would have to end by 2028 if he were re-elected.

But after chairing a four-hour cabinet meeting, Erdogan raised the idea of writing a brand new constitution to replace one that Turkey has been using since 1982. It was drafted following a military coup.

"It is clear that the source of Turkey's problems is that constitutions have always been written by putschists," Erdogan said in nationally televised remarks.

Google To Pay $3.8 Million To Settle Pay Gap, Hiring Bias Claims

San Ramon (California): Google will pay $2.6 million to more than 5,500 employees and past job applicants to resolve allegations that the internet giant discriminated against female engineers and Asians in California and Washington state. The settlement announced Monday closes a 4-year-old case that the Labour Department brought as part its periodic reviews of the pay practices at federal government contractors such as Google. That inquiry resulted in accusations that during a period spanning from 2014 to 2017, Google paid female engineers less than men in similar positions. The pay discrepancies were cited in several Google offices in its home state of California, as well as at locations in Seattle and Kirkland, Washington. Google had fiercely contested the allegations as unfounded before reaching the settlement without acknowledging any wrongdoing. "We believe everyone should be paid based upon the work they do, not who they are, and invest heavily to make our hiring and compensation processes fair and unbiased," Google said on Monday.

Boost For Economy

he budget presented by finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman sent the stock market soaring with sensex scaling over 2300 points. The total size of the 2021-22 budget was at Rs 34.83 lakh crore. Around 5.54 lakh crore was provided for capital expenditure. Sitharaman announced a slew of taxation reforms. A large allocation has been made for healthcare. This included a total spend of around Rs 2 lakh crore on healthcare with Rs 35,000 crore on Covid-19 vaccine development and inoculation. This is an increase of 137 percent compared to the outlay on healthcare which was Rs 94,452 crore in 2020. The finance minister also announced a new cess on agriculture development – Rs 2.5 per litre on petrol and Rs 4 per litre on diesel. Also, four poll-bound states - Kerala, Tamil Nadu, Assam and West Bengal - will see significant spending on highway road expansion.

Significantly, the budget also has a new vehicle scrapping policy that aims to provide the auto sector a boost. There will now be a vehicle fitness test after 20 years in case of personal vehicles and 15 years in case of commercial vehicles. The auto sector has been in a slump over the last three years. In fact, 2019 had witnessed the biggest decline in auto sales. Overall, the focus has been on healthcare and infrastructure. The budget provided Rs 1.18 lakh crore for ministry of Roads and Rs 1.10 lakh crore for Railways.

The budget was Nirmala Sitharaman's third and also India's first paperless budget. She used a 'made in India' tablet to deliver the budget address. In the budget, the finance minister has chosen to spend her way out of the current financial crisis. And this is what the economy needed in the given circumstances. The budget is thus a step in the direction towards a self-reliant economy also called Atmanirbharta. This is expected to drive economic momentum and growth.

But given the battering the economy has received due to the ongoing pandemic, it will be a long time before things return to normal. As per estimates released by Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation last year, India's Gross Domestic Product for the April-June quarter slipped by a whopping 23.9 per cent, owing to a strict nationwide lockdown due to the novel coronavirus. In 2019, the GDP had expanded by 5.2 per cent in the comparable quarter. The gaping dent in the GDP has meant that the lakhs of jobs have been lost which will not be created in near future. For that to happen, the economy will have to kickstart and start functioning normally. And this, in turn, will not be possible on a sustainable basis until the vaccination is done on a mass scale and the government gets a grip on the runaway pandemic. This would mean probably a wait of three to six more months. But a budget that has focussed on health care and infrastructure development will certainly go a long way to give economy the necessary boost it needed.

Need For A Separate Shia Wakf Board

All 133 Mosques And Shrines With An Annual Income Of Rs. 26 Crore And 9500 Kanals Of Land In Jammu And Kashmir Have Come Under The Central Wakf Board Under The J&K Reorganization Act

THE EXISTING Jammu and Kashmir Board for Muslims Specified Wakf in Kashmir is awaiting the decision to be implemented as it plans to open a chain of general stores next to religious shrines and start a clothing brand that would be available at nominal prices. It also plans to establish diagnostic testing laboratories on nominal charges for the benefit of the patients.

ince the creation of Shia Wakf Board in Jammu and Kashmir is a hot topic these days I deem it important to put across my views on the issue which I'm sure reflects views of the society at large. Even though I live in America, I can't detach myself from my community, culture and ethos. I have the highest regard and respect for every political leader, religious scholars, preachers and members of my community back home. However, this doesn't stop me from having differences of opinion on the issues of public importance and it does not tantamount to arrogance or disrespect. This is in fact, the essence of democracy and necessary for creating a democratic temper in the society.

I heard many statements for and against the creation of the Shia Wakf Act, but I personally feel we should have a separate Wakf Act for better administration and management of Augaf properties belonging to for the reasons enumerated below. Wakf Act will maintain transparency and account-

A Productive Budget Session

n Friday, Parliament convened for its Budget Session. The pandemic shortened the Budget Session last year, and the winter session was not held at all. This makes the current session even more significant, for it is not just the Union Budget 2021-22 which needs to be tabled, discussed and passed, but a range of other issues which merit greater deliberation in the space which symbolises the expression of popular sovereignty.

Unfortunately, the Budget Session has started off with a note of discord - with most Opposition parties boycotting the President's address to register their resistance to the farm laws and the Centre's handling of the protests. Instead of the government skirting a debate or the Opposition walking out, it is crucial to have a structured discussion on agriculture, reforms, protests and what happened on January 26 in both the Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha. Remember, it was because the legislative process was fast-tracked that apprehensions about the laws deepened. An open discussion – with both supportive and critical points of views being expressed freely - will help send a signal that the appetite for debate is alive, and assure farmers that their concerns are being articulated in Parliament.

India has faced a national security, public health and economic crisis over the past year. And each of these elements needs greater deliberation too. The standoff with China has persisted - and a lot has happened since raksha mantri Rajnath Singh last briefed Parliament. The government would do well to put out a detailed statement on the exact state of play both in the western and eastern sectors, and what it plans to do to oust China from Indian territory. The pandemic has abated – but there is no room for complacency. As the vaccination drive intensifies, Parliament should see a discussion on India's record in handling the pandemic so far. And, of course, given that this is the Budget Session, there must be a comprehensive discussion on each element of India's economic story, from the macro- economic indicators and revival in select sectors to the persistence of high unemployment and entrenchment of structural inequalities. All of this is possible only if both the Treasury and Opposition benches recognise that they differ, but the expression of these differences must happen on the floor of the House. The government must shed any unilateralism, and the Opposition must shed any plans of disruption.

Old And Forlorn

OFTEN WHILE making important family decisions you completely sideline your aged parents. They are watching you as mute spectators, while you take decisions and you don't bother to ask their view because you think that the oldage has taken a toll on their wit

Bashir Ahmad Dar

YOUR PARENTS are aged. Old age has sucked all their strength out of their every single bone. You are their strength. But, your fearful sidelong look makes them old beyond their years.

ights and duties are two inseparable entities. They go hand in hand. They are two sides of the same coin. Every person has certain duties that they are obliged to fulfill. However, for the effective fulfilment of these duties their knowledge is a prerequisite thing. It is only after one has done one's duties that one can talk about one's rights. Performing duties effectively and enjoying rights handsomely makes life beautiful. Right from the stepping out of the moth-er's womb into this world, a person holds certain identities. Being son/daughter, brother/sister, friend, student to name a few. The number of identities continue to surge as one grows. But every identity associates itself with some rights and duties. For instance, as a student your rights are that you get a good education, best teachers to teach you and opportunities to play in school. But it is your duty to work hard and excel in studies. You are also bound to abide by the rules and regulations of your school. Similarly, as a kid of your family, it is your right that you get a safe and secure environment at your home.You get a house to live in. Parents top the list of blessings which God has bestowed upon the progeny of Adam (AS). They are the most selfless and altruistic creatures of Allah. It is only your parents who are most sincere to you, who love you unconditionally, who despite all worries and sorrows, not only raise you but also want to see you at the highest level of achievement. Only an orphan can tell you how it feels to be without parents. To him, the world is cruel and crazy. The world seems intimidating as hell. The world is a concoction of bitterness and indignation for him/her. So,value your parents while they are with you. Islam has made it obligatory for you to obey your parents and have mercy on them. Islam has told you to seek paradise under the feet of your mother and enter the paradise through the gate(your father). So, God has made it mandatory for us to care for our parents and respect them beyond measures. Like Islam, every other religion has laid special emphasis on to love and respect the parents. Remember, children are the best observers and imitators of things. What you do to your parents, will surely be emulated by your children. You are digging a pit for yourself. It reminds me of a very short but meaningful story. In the story, a man takes his aged father to a hilltop to kill him by pushing him down the hill. But, just when the son was about to push him, the father stopped him. Pointing to a nearby spot, he asks his son to take him there and push. On asking why the father wishes to be pushed from the spot, the old man replies that he too had pushed his father from that spot when his father was old. So, you reap what you sow.

y father never wore a monkev cap during winters. He did not believe in conforming to stereotypes about Bengali men. Rather he did the next best thing – he'd wrap his head with multiple layers of men's shawl while dropping me to school every morning. Seeing the bare heads of other parents, my claims of 'my daddy strongest' would often fall flat. Whenever I did request him to brave the cold and take off the shawl, he would warn, "It's better to be safe than sorry."

I grew up ingraining these words in my mind. As a teen, the moment my temperature hit 100, I would ask for a Crocin in order to function normally, even if that function meant lying down and reading a book. When I'd be taken to the doctor for general check-ups, I'd ask for supplements that could keep me in the pink of health. As the doc warned against unnecessary pillpopping, I'd tell him exactly what I was told — "It's better to be safe than sorry."

In my adult life, my friends finally found a nomenclature for my 'condition': hypochondria. A basic Google search will tell you that hypochondriacs are people who are excessively concerned about contracting illnesses. In my mind, nothing was excessive about my need to protect myself from a prospective illness, it was selfpreservation. I even told myself that I possessed foresight my friends were not gifted with. After all, what was with this whole business of playing outdoors during rains? Or cycling when the heat was oppressive? Privilege, to me, meant every single opportunity that allowed me to read books or watch television, activities that demanded application of mind rather than body.

straight at a dermatologist's. A cough or a sniffle heard from a mile away would set the alarm bells ringing. I loaded my medicine box with Vitamin C supplements just so I'd never run out of the immunity booster. The few times I turned out to be secondary contact to someone who'd contracted Covid-19, not only did I lock myself up in the room, I would imagine something going terribly wrong with my throat – I'd spray perfume over my arms just to check if my sense of smell was still intact and would eat salty chips to check if my taste buds were working just fine. But the mind simply wouldn't stop playing games till the test result came out to be negative. The one time I needed to travel to India to attend to a medical emergency, I stood outside the Terminal 3 entrance wondering for half an hour whether I should go ahead and take the flight, after all. Psychologically, I have died several deaths before the impending end.

A year into the pandemic, I am not any braver. But somewhere the gates of fear have been sealed. Covid-19 has taught an important lesson: the value of living in the present fully. It means not ruing about the past nor worrying about the future, but making the most of the present because it is the only certainty we have. My greatest joy once was travelling to India to see family and friends. That joy is now condensed to watching them talk on my laptop screen. My greatest disappointment was to see a loved one passing away. I have lived through that too virtually. With the pandemic having realised our worst fears, there is a lot less to be fearful of. And as mass vaccination programmes are being rolled out, it's hope whose time has come.

'Sport Participation Levels Reduced In Students From Lower Socio-Economic Groups'

Agencies

According to a new research, students from lower socioeconomic groups (SEG) are less likely to participate in sport or physical activity at university.

The research, led by Sheffield Hallam University, was published in the journal 'Sport, Education and Society'. The main barriers affecting par-

The main barriers affecting participation were found to be down to the cost of being part of a sports team, lack of time due to academic commitments, part-time working or their social life taking precedence, and limited prior knowledge of and participation in a sport before starting university.

Funded by British Universities and Colleges Sport, the study surveyed over 700 students from 20 universities and found those that had participated in sport and physical activity prior to starting university were more likely to continue participating when at university, regardless of socio-economic group.

New students to university were unlikely to take up a sport that they hadn't done previously, and confidence to try new activities declined with age. Other university-specific factors affecting participation included facilities and accessibility and whether or not students lived on or close to campus or commuted to university.

A large proportion of commuting students were in the low SEG group and were found to be less likely to be involved in university sports clubs and access university facilities, but they were found to be more likely to maintain any existing participation at home.

Dr Kerry Griffiths of the Sport Industry Research Centre at Sheffield Hallam, said, "Evidence suggests that participation in sport and physical activity declines as young people reach university age and it is clear that universities should have a key role in maintaining existing participation as well as in engaging and sustaining participation in potential new participants."

"There is also evidence to show that people from low socio-economic groups are less likely to participate in sport and physical activity at all ages," added Dr Griffiths.

Dr Griffiths noted, "Universities could build on their outreach programmes with schools or local communities to look at ways in which they could help to develop sporting habits at an earlier age."

Griffiths further stated that "For those that do come to university as existing sport participants, there is a need to ensure that they have the right opportunities, support, and encouragement to be able to continue to participate. Exploring or developing links with local community clubs may also be a useful strategy to enable participation to be sustained amongst existing participants."

Verbal reasoning may not always have positive effect on children: Study

Agencies

Parents, take note! Explaining to your child why their behaviour is wrong may not always have the intended positive effect if the parent is loud and abrupt, a new study suggested.

The findings of the study were published in the journal 'International Journal of Behavioral Development'. Research conducted globally shows that spanking is not the best option. But verbal reasoning, which explains why the behaviour is wrong, may not always have the intended positive effect if the parent is loud and abrupt, according to the study, led by the University of Michigan.

The findings indicate both positive and negative outcomes that could have lasting consequences on children's emotional development. Verbal reasoning was associated with higher levels of getting along with others, but also with increased aggression and higher levels of distraction. "Positive discipline does not always seem to have all that many positive benefits," said Andrew Grogan-Kaylor, professor of social work and lead author of the study published in the latest issue of International Journal of Behavioral

Development. "It is more likely that the longterm investments that parents make in children, such as spending time with them, letting them know they are loved, and listening to them, have more positive effects than nonviolent discipline. This has yet to be thoroughly researched in a global context," added Grogan-Kaylor.

Research has continually shown that spanking leads to negative child outcomes, such as aggression and distraction, regardless of the context in which children are disciplined, including country, race and ethnicity, and neighbourhood.

In the new study, researchers at U-M's Ann Arbor and Flint campuses analyzed different forms of punishment associated with children's behaviors in a global sample of nearly 216,000 families from 62 countries. The data came from the United Nations Children's Fund Multiple Indicator Cluster Surveys.

The results confirmed that spanking was not associated with children getting along with their counterparts. It also led to increased aggression and distraction. For nonviolent discipline, which involved verbal reasoning and taking away privileges, mixed outcomes occurred, Grogan-Kaylor said.

Verbal reasoning did promote pr one positive result: Children were more prosocial with others, especially in countries where this discipline was more common. Surprisingly, verbal reasoning also increased aggression, likely in cases when the parents used harsh tones and language, the study suggested.

"Verbal reasoning may have negative effects on children if it is not employed in a way that is developmentally appropriate for the child to understand why their behavior is inappropriate," Grogan-Kaylor said. Meanwhile, children did not get along with other children and showed higher levels of aggression, and became distracted when parents took away privileges. So what is the best way to discipline a child? Grogan-Kaylor suggested providing them structure, keeping the lines of communication open, and providing developmentally appropriate removal of privileges.

Novel Biosensors Quickly Detect Coronavirus Proteins, Antibodies

Press Trust Of India

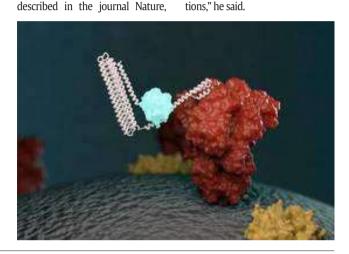

Scientists have developed new protein-based biosensors that glow when mixed with components of the novel coronavirus or specific COVID-19 antibodies, a breakthrough that could enable faster and more widespread testing for the disease.

When mixed with fluid from a nasal swab or blood sample, these protein sensors emit light within minutes, according to the research published in the journal Nature.

Current coronavirus diagnosis relies mostly on a technique called RT-PCR, which amplifies genetic material from the virus so that it can be seen.

This technique requires specialised staff and equipment, and also consumes lab supplies that are now in high demand all over the world. In order to directly detect coronavirus in patient samples without the need for genetic amplification, researchers led by David Baker, a professor at the University of Washington in the US, used computers to design new biosensors.

These protein-based devices, described in the journal Nature,

Budget 2021, A Disappointment: Tarigami

SRINAGAR: Stating that the Union Budget is a huge disappointment for the common people, CPI (M) leader Mohamad Yousuf Tarigami has said that it has failed to address the issue of growing people's miseries i.e rising unemployment, hunger, skyrocketing price rise.

"It has miserably failed to address the economic recession and the issue of sharp fall in the domestic demand due to the massive decline in the purchasing power of the people. It has not suggested any effective measures to address the virus of inequality. The job losses in the organized sector are alarming. Massive job loss among the educated young people is disturbing", Tarigami said.

The unemployment scenario in rural India, which was at 9 per cent even in December, sue at the national level and 2020 according to the Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy any private sector. The un-(CMIE), it is inexcusable that employment level in J&K has the Finance Minister's speech did not have a single mention of MGNREGS.

Providing employment to the youth has become a chronic ismuch more so in I&K as it lacks reached a crescendo.

It is a fact that a majority of farmers in India are still outside the procurement network, and are denied access to MSPs. However, the government has announced no plan on how to expand the access of farmers to procurement or MSP. In fact. the Finance Minister has tried to mislead by comparing in her budget speech procurement of last year with procurement in 2013-14, when open market prices were higher than the MSP for many crops and farmers did not need to sell the produce to government agencies. The Finance Minister has herself stated that only 1.54 crore farmers benefited from MSPs for paddy and wheat in 2020-21. This is an admission that a vast majority of farmers have not benefited from the MSP-based procurement. In fact, its medium-term plan is to reduce procurement, which is visible through its insistence on implementing the three Farm Acts

Data Of 25 Lakh Airtel Customers In J&K 'Leaked'

Press Trust Of India

NEW DELHI: Data of around 25 lakh Bharti Airtel subscribers of Jammu and Kashmir circle, including Aadhaar numbers, address and date of birth, has reportedly been leaked by hackers, even as the telecom operator denied any breach in its servers.

A sample of the leaked database was shared on Twitter by cybersecurity researcher Rajshekhar Rajaharia which shows masked details of the subscribers.

Rajaharia also shared a video of an email conversation between Bharti Airtel and the hackers with the name of "Red Rabbit Team".

The video shows that the hackers informed Bharti Airtel about the breach in December and demanded money.

"Hackers have claimed that they have access to pan-India data of Airtel subscribers and they only uploaded a sample of subscribers data from Jammu and Kashmir.

"It may be possible that the hacker may have uploaded a shell (malicious software code) in Airtel servers. During the Covid-19 peak period several companies could not focus on security and their data was breached," Rajaharia

The hackers also uploaded the subscriber data on a website, but it was not accessible later.

When contacted, a Bharti Airtel spokesperson denied any breach of the company's servers. "Airtel takes great pride in deploying various measures to safeguard the privacy of its customers. In this specific case, we confirm that there is no data breach at our end. "In fact, the claims made by this group reveal glaring inaccuracies and a large proportion of the data records do not even belong to Airtel. We have already apprised the relevant authorities of the matter," the spokesperson said.

Freedom Of Expression Is Fundamental, Universal Freedom: UN Spokesman

Press Trust Of India

UNITED NATIONS: A spokesperson for UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres has said that the freedom of expression is a fundamental, universal freedom, and people should be able to speak their minds and opine freely.

"Look, I'm not particularly familiar with that case. What I can tell you is that the freedom of expression is a fundamental, universal freedom, and people should be able to speak their minds and opine freely," Stephane Dujarric, Spokesman for the Secretary-General, said on Monday.

Dujarric was responding to a question by a Pakistani journalist on the sedition charges against Congress MP Shashi Tharoor and six journalists following the farmers' tractor rally in New Delhi on January 26.

Tharoor and journalists Mrinal Pande, Rajdeep Sardesai, Vinod Jose, Zafar Agha, Paresh Nath and Anant Nath were booked by the Noida Police for sedition, among other charges, over the violence during the farmers' tractor rally in New Delhi.

The FIR was lodged following a complaint by a resident who alleged that "digital broadcast" and "social media posts" by these people were responsible for the violence during a tractor rally by farmers in the national capital. Media bodies have strongly condemned the filing of FIRs against senior editors and journalists for their reporting on the farmers' tractor rally and the ensuing violence here on Republic Day, saying it was an attempt to "browbeat' and "intimidate" the media. The Editors Guild (EGI) said it

"strongly condemns the intimidating manner in the way in which the Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh Police" have registered FIRs against senior editors and journalists (including current and former officebearers of EGI) for reporting on the farmers' protest rallies and the ensuing violence that took place in the national capital on January 26.

The Press Club of India said it is shocked to learn that UP and MP police have lodged FIRs against respected journalists, and others, on various counts of breach of criminal law, including sedition.

the exams for class 10 will conclude on June 7, while those for class 12 will end on June 11. The exams for class 12 will be conducted in two shifts to reduce the number of exam days.

Over 34 lakh students have registered this year for classes 10 and 12 examinations.

Usually, practical exams are conducted in January and written exams begin in February and conclude in March. However, the exams are delayed this session in view of the COVID-19 pandemic. Union Education Minister Ramesh Pokhriyal 'Nishank' who announced the schedule wished luck to students appearing for the exams. "Please be assured that we have done our best to ensure that these exams go smoothly for you. Wish you good luck! Pokhriyal tweeted.

Schools across the country were closed in March last year to contain the spread of COVID-19. They were partially reopened in some states from October 15. The board exams last year had to be postponed mid-way in March. They were later cancelled and the results announced on the basis of an alternative assessment scheme.

Elaborating on the exam schedule, Sanvam Bhardwai, Controller of Examination of CBSE, said, "Class 12 exams would be conducted in two shifts to reduce the number of days in conducting examinations. In the second shift, examinations will be conducted in subjects which are not opted by students in schools situated abroad". The timings for the two shifts will be 10:30 am to 1:30 pm and 2:30 pm-5:30 pm. "In the second shift, examinations will be conducted on

Officials in the MHA said that the spike in the expenditure appears to have occurred because of massive mobilization of the forces and other measures in the wake of revocation of special status to erstwhile J&K State.

A senior security official said that over 400 additional companies are brought to the valley after the Centre's announcement of abrogation of Article 370 to curb possible protests.

The amount of relief which has been disbursed among the stakeholders is to the extent of Rs 1,000 per beneficiary per month for a period of three months, he said.

He further informed the House that this benefit has further been extended for a period of six months at Rs 1,000 per month and an amount of Rs 618.70 lakh has recently been approved by the government for further release to beneficiaries.

The guidelines were issued by the State Executive Committee (SEC) here, warning penal action under the Disaster Management Act in case of any deviation.

Referring to the revised SOPs issued by the Centre to be followed in cinema halls and theatres, a member-secretary of SEC in an order said 100 per cent seating capacity inside cinemas, theatres and multiplexes is allowed to be utilised but the management would ensure staged, row-wise exit of audience in order to avoid crowding. "Sufficient time interval between successive screenings will be ensured to allow staggered exit, longer intermissions may be done to allow movement of people by maintaining distance and time of commencement, intermission and finish time of two different shows should not overlap," the order read. It asked for maintenance of a six-feet distance outside auditoriums, common area and waiting areas and noting down of contact numbers of audience during the booking of tickets to facilitate contact tracing, if required later. "Digital/no contact transactions should be preferred and floor markers should be deployed for better queue management," the order said, adding availability of hand sanitisers, preferably in touch-free mode and thermal scanning at entry points should be ensured. The order also called for frequent and compulsory sanitisation of premises after each screening and temperature setting of air-conditioning in the range of 24-30 degrees Celsius. (PTI) light to moderate rain and snow in some areas over the next two days, officials said.

Srinagar and Pahalgam were the only places in the valley where the mercury went down on Monday night, while there was an improvement in the minimum temperature in the rest of the weather stations, officials said.

Srinagar recorded a low of minus 4.6 degrees Celsius on Monday night 1.5 degrees down from the previous night's minus 3.1 degrees Celsius.

Pahalgam tourist resort in south Kashmir, recorded a low of minus 9.3 degrees Celsius over three degrees down from the previous night's minus 6.1 degrees Celsius.

Pahalgam was the coldest recorded place in Jammu and Kashmir.

Qazigund recorded a minimum of 4.5 degrees Celsius over three degrees up from minus 7.6 degrees Celsius the previous night, they said.

The minimum temperature at the Gulmarg skiing resort, in north Kashmir's Baramulla district, settled at minus 7 degrees Celsius last night up from minus 8.2 degrees Celsius the previous night.

Kupwara town, in north Kashmir, recorded a low of minus 1.6 degrees Celsius, while Kokernag, in the south, minus 8.4 degrees Celsius.

The MET Office has forecast the possibility of light to moderate snow/ rain at scattered to fairly-widespread places of J-K over three days from Tuesday under the influence of a fresh Western Disturbance.

"There's very less chances of heavy precipitation in plains of J&K but heavy snowfall especially on higher reaches of J&K can't be ruled out either especially on February 3," a MeT official said.

The official further said that the weather disturbance could also lead to temporary closure of highway due to land and mudslides and also cause disruption in flight operations due to snowfall and poor visibility.

There will be an increase in cloud cover over both UTs. As a result, there will be a rise in minimum temperature by 2-3 Degrees Celsius and fall in day temperature by 4-5 Degrees Celsius," he added.

Meanwhile, Lok Sabha was informed on Tuesday that a total of 10,752 cases of ceasefire violation have taken place along India's border with Pakistan in the last three years in which 72 security personnel and 70 civilians were killed.

Union Minister of State for Home G Kishan Reddy said 364 security personnel and 341 civilians were injured in these ceasefire violations along the International Border and the Line of Control in Jammu and Kashmir in 2018, 2019 and 2020.

During the three years, 1,452 militant attacks have taken place in Jammu and Kashmir in which 233 security personnel and 115 civilians were killed, he said in a written reply to a question.

As many as 635 militants were also killed in gunfights with security forces in 2018, 2019 and 2020, he said.

Reddy said a total of 484 security personnel and 373 civilians were injured in militant attacks.

The minister said the government has adopted a policy of zero tolerance towards militancy, and immediate and effective retaliation is undertaken by the security forces in cases of ceasefire violations or cross-border firings.

There has been a substantial decline in militant attacks over the last three years due to a slew of pre-emptive measures undertaken by the government, he said.

Since the scheme was launched in 1989, the Government of India has released almost 9000 crore alone for J&K's security related expenditure.

aside the writ court judgment which had upheld the PSA detention of Ganai.

The Jamaat chief was arrested in March 2019 after the socio-religious organisation was banned by the government on the grounds that Ganai's activities were inimical to the security of the erstwhile state.

He was booked in an FIR under Unlawful Activities Act as the authority felt it was imperative to keep him under preventive detention so as to prevent him from indulging in nefarious and anti-national activities.

The court said while the allegations against Ganai may justify his detention, the law of preventive detention law is required to be adhered to scrupulously.

It observed that the order of detention is "clearly vitiated by total non-application of mind by the detaining authority and it should have been held so by the writ court".

The bench also held that the police dossier or the grounds of detention made no mention whether Ganai was arrested in connection with the FIRs.

"The detaining authority has also not indicated any reason as to why the substantive laws of the State were not sufficient to deter the detenu from pursuing his activities aimed at destabilizing the State and thereby threatening its security," the court said. (PTI)

Aussie Pacer Merv Hughes Inducted Into Australian Cricket Hall Of Fame

Press Trust of India

MELBOURNE: Former pacer Merv Hughes has been inducted into the Australian Cricket Hall of Fame, the country's board (CA) said on Tuesday, describing him as a "larrikin who demolished batting line-ups all over the world".

The 59-year-old captured 212 Test wickets at an average of 28.38 in a career spanning 53 Tests and 33 ODIs for Australia from 1985 to 1994.

His career-best figures of 8-87 against the West Indies at the WACA in 1988 included the final wicket of a hat-trick spread across three separate overs, two innings and two different days. He also played 33 ODIs taking 38 wickets.

"Absolutely stoked and blown away by this!!", Hugues, who also represented Victoria, Essex, and the ACT over a First-Class career spanning 14 seasons, wrote on his twitter handle.

In 2005, Hughes became a selector for the Australian cricket team, a role he would hold through until 2010. Hughes' handlebar moustache, menacing run-up and displays of affection for his teammates made him a favourite for a generation of cricket fans, the CA said.

"Merv Hughes was an icon of the Australian summer for so many of us, a larger-than-life personality, a wonderful international cricketer, an ambassador for the sport and a deserved inductee into the Australian Cricket Hall of Fame," Peter King, the Australian Cricket Hall of Fame Chairman, said in a statement.

"He has left his legacy on the sport in postcareer mentorship with modern-day teams, administrations roles as a National Selector and the heartbeat of Australian cricket. The Australian Cricket Hall of Fame is delighted to recognise Mery Hughes.

Earl Eddings, Cricket Australia Chair, said: "He gave everything he had to try and help his team to win, coupled with his enthusiastic theatrics on the pitch and his love for the game he will always be warmly remembered as the big-hearted fastbowler and larrikin who demolished batting lineups all over the world.

"I couldn't think of a more well-deserved inductee into the Australian Cricket Hall of fame, who now joins an elite group of individuals who have given so much to the game we all love."

⁴Left-Arm Wrist Spinners Like Kuldeep Yadav Are Unique, Should Play Against England,' Says Irfan Pathan

Press Trust of India

NEW DELHI: "You don't get left-arm wrist spinners everyday," former pacer Irfan Pathan said, firmly backing Kuldeep Yadav and hoped that there will be place for him in the Indian team for the Test-series against England.

Yadav has been warming the bench for more than three months now but Pathan said he is a "unique bowler" who would do well in the upcoming Test assignment, starting February 5 in Chennai.

"It is very important from the team management point of view, how they keep mind-set of a player, who is not playing. I am sure they must be doing a right job, and that's why the guys, when we saw some of the youngsters, they came and played really well," Pathan told PTI in an interaction.

"I am sure they must be supporting and backing Kuldeep Yadav because he has got immense talent. You don't find left-arm wrist spinners on every-day-basis.

"He is a unique bowler. The guys is about 25-26 and this is where he is going to get maturity. Whenever he gets opportunity, first Test, second Test, whenever he will be raring to go and I am pretty sure that he will do well." Further making a case for Yadav to play against England, Pathan cited history. 'When it comes to England, look at the history, if you are a leg-spinner, you always have a chance of performing well, I just hope that whenever he plays, he does really well and he does," added Pathan, who has played 29 Tests and 120 ODIs for India. Yadav has so far played six Tests and picked 24 wickets. He played his last Test against Australia at Sydney in January 2019.

Asked about combination of the seriesopener, Pathan said fielding three spinners would not be a bad option, considering the nature of the Chennai pitch.

"It depends on the wickets but there is a high chance in Chennai they play three spinners because we see how Chennai pitch can really help the spinners with that extra bounce as well and the soil, which is very conducive for spin bowling," he elaborated.

"India is such a good side that even if they have to play three fast bowlers, they will be ready to play, in any kind of pitch," he said, adding that now there is more pronounced seam in the red ball as well, which can help both spinners and fast bowlers equally.

"But conditions which is helping, with dry pitches, you will definitely see three spinners playing," he added.

Pathan also foresees a scenario where young Washington Sundar and RavichandranAshwin can play together in the four Test series, of which the final two Tests will be held in Ahmedabad.

"There could a chance because if you play Washington Sundar, you are not playing Washington Sundar just for pure ability for his bowling, you are playing him as an all-rounder. He bats really well and he can really do well as a spinner in India specially when the conditions are really helping the spinners and we have always seen wrist-spinners are important.

"But on Indian pitches finger spinners can be very very useful, specially guys who can bowl fast-spin like (Ravindra) Jadeja. He (Sundar) can play a similar role even (though) he is an off-spinner, there could be a chance where you could see Ashwin, Washington Sundar and Kuldeep Yadav, these three guys playing," the left-arm pacer added.

Pathan predicted a 2-1 win for India in the Test series.

"Definitely India will win the series, no doubt about that. England side has done really well, just recently in Sri Lanka, pitches are similar and for them Joe Root will be the key," he added.

"Lot of people are talking about their spin department but I am really looking forward to see how their pace bowling department goes. Their quality fast bowlers, Jofra Archer, James Anderson, Stuart Board, Chris Woakes, if they stay fit for all the four Test matches, it would be a competitive series," he said.

The Test series, starting February 5 in Chennai, will be aired on 'Star Sports' Network.

'Don't Have To Bowl Faster In Order To Be Successful In India,' Says England Spinner Jack Leach

Press Trust of India

CHENNAI: Bowling quicker in the air brought success to Monty Panesar in the 2012 tour of India but England left-arm spinner Jack Leach feels the same tactic may not work for him on his maiden series against the mighty hosts. Panesar and Graeme Swann bowled quicker than their Indian counterparts in 2012, engineering a famous away Test series win for England. However, Leach said he would like to stick his strengths.

"Monty and Swann are two bowlers I love to watch. I watch a lot of spin videos to try and take things from the spinners. Monty bowled at a quicker pace in India and that could be very tricky on a spinning wicket," said Leach in an online media interaction after the team completed its six-day quarantine here ahead of the first Test beginning on Friday.

"I am probably not going to be bowling the same speed. It is probably more about how the ball gets to the batsman in terms of trajectory. There have been other successful bowlers who didn't bowl as fast as Monty did."

"It is about sticking to my strengths and knowing what my optimum pace and then going up and down a little bit from there. Everyone has an optimum pace. It's important to stick to that as much as possible," said Leach who took 10 wickets in the recent series in Sri Lanka.

Bowling in India is as tough as it gets for a visiting spinner but Leach

He may not bowl as quick as Panesar did but a fellow left-arm spinner doing well in India does inspire a lot of confidence.

"I definitely think I can make an impact in this series, obviously we have got three days training and I am not sure what the wicket is going to be like or anything, so not looking too far ahead...

"...but definitively want to make an impact and they have got quite a lot of right-handers, so I see that as a good thing for me," said Leach, who has played 12 Tests.

Will he fancy bowling the legstump line from over the wicket, something Ashley Giles did in the 2001 series in India?

"That is something we have talked about in Sri Lanka, definitely I guess change in our angles. Bowling over the wicket, for him, for his action, I prefer to bowl round the wicket.

"I feel I have got more dismissals in play and I guess change something just because someone else did it, I think it is sticking to your strengths, and doing that, so it might be something we can use at some point for sure."

Leach said he is not thinking about becoming the number one spinner in the team with a good showing against India and just wants to build on the success he enjoyed in Sri Lanka.

"I think it has been a long time not playing and in that time I did a lot of work, to try and become the bowler I guess I want to be. I feel that it is all in there and just need to bring out now and Sri Lanka was a good start and I felt like I am go-

Liverpool Legend & SC East Bengal Coach Robbie Fowler Faces ISL Ban For Alleged Racist Remarks Against Referees

Press Trust of India

KOLKATA: The Indian Super League (ISL) is making headlines for the wrong reasons as East Bengal's star English coach Robbie Fowler faces a minimum ban of five matches and Rs 6 lakh fine for an alleged racist remark against referees after a match against FC Goa.

Frustrated after East Bengal's 1-1 draw against a 10-man FC Goa in Margaon on January 29, Fowler had allegedly said the refereeing was either "anti-English or anti-East Bengal".

Video footage of the Englishman making the remark could not be assessed as it has been deleted from all platforms.

The match commissioner has taken a strong note of the incident and reported the matter to the disciplinary committee which will take the decision after hearing Fowler's version on Wednesday evening," an ISL official told PTI on Tuesday.

"If he's proven guilty, he is liable for a minimum five-match ban and Rs 6 lakh fine," he added.

On Tuesday, Indian Super League side Odisha FC sacked its head coach Stuart Baxter for making an unsavoury comment on rape to criticise a refereeing decision after the team's loss to Jamshedpur FC.

The All India Football Federation's (AIFF) disciplinary committee will make a decision on Wednesday after hearing Fowler's version through video conferencing.

"Furthermore, a stadium ban and If the perpetrator is an official, the fine shall be at least Rs 6,00,000."

The standard of refereeing has often been an issue in the ISL.

Odisha FC sacked Baxter with immediate effect and issued a public apology after the coach said, "One of my players will have to rape someone or get raped himself if he was going to get a penalty..."

As for Fowler, he had expressed his displeasure with refereeing on more than one occasion in this edition of the league, which is his first.

The 45-year-old had remarked that the referees probably need a "bit of help" after they were denied at least two penalties in a 0-2 loss against NorthEast United FC in December.

Then, after a goalless draw against Chennaiyin FC in January, he termed the refereeing "disgraceful" and had said he's "fighting battles with the referees every single game and it's an absolute joke".

Fowler had also been suspended for one match after receiving his second caution of the season, which forced him to miss their match against Bengaluru FC on January 9. Danny Fox was, however, allowed to play in the said game after the disciplinary committee overturned a red card following a complaint by SCEB against the refereeing.

Playing in their maiden ISL season, East Bengal are currently placed 10th, above Odisha FC with six matches left.

Abu Dhabi: Waseem Muhammad smashed a fighting fifty as Northern Warriors beat Team Abu Dhabi by eightwickets in a last-ball thriller at the Abu Dhabi T10 event here.

Chasing 124 to win, Warriors rode on UAE's domestic cricketer Muhammad's 76 runs off 34 balls and opener Lendl Simmons' unbeaten 37 off 25 balls.

Warriors scored 31 runs off the last two overs with 15 coming off the last over.

Earlier, put in to bat, Team Abu Dhabi scored 123 for three, with Joe Clarke scoring 50 off 24 balls.

The match got off to a sensational start when WahabRiaz clean bowled Paul Stirling in the first ball of the match through a swinging yorker.

Skipper Luke Wright, however, hit Riaz for two consecutive boundaries and a six in the same over.

Wright did not spare Junaid Siddique in the second over and hit him for a six and a boundary. RayadEmrit ended Wright's quick knock by forcing him to hit straight to Fabian Allen at mid-

When Siddique had Chris Gayle caught at long-on by Rovman Powell, Team Abu Dhabi slipped to 38 for 3 in 3.1 overs.

Clarke began by hitting Siddique for two consecutive boundaries. Warriors re-introduced Riaz for the fifth over and he gave away just eight runs.

Clarke opened up in the eighth over and hit Emrit for two sixes and two boundaries to take 22 runs. Ben Duckett too chipped in by hitting Lakshan for two sixes to steer the total past the 100-run mark.

In reply, Warriors went for big hits right away with Simmons hitting Usman Shinwari's third delivery for a six over mid-wicket while Muhammad smashing him for a boundary past point.

Simmons also hit Naveen Ul-Hag for two successive boundaries and a six in the second over.

Jamie Overton's deceptive slower deliveries made Muhammad swing and miss twice, but he hit the next two deliveries to the Rohan Mustafa bowled a tight fourth over despite Simmons hitting him for a boundary.

With 31 runs needed off the last two overs. Simmons smashed McCoy through the covers for a boundary. Muhammad too hit McCoy for two boundaries and a six to reduce the margin to 15 runs off the last six balls.

With three runs needed off the last four deliveries, Overton trapped Muhammad leg before for 76. Nicholas Pooran then walked in but was out when he lifted Overton straight to McCoy at long-on.

Simmons picked a single off the fifth ball. Powell replaced Pooran and hit Overton to midwicket, but a fumble by Mustafa gave them the required two runs.
