Inside Kashmir's Comedy Circus Where Cringe Content Is New Fame

Zaid Bin Shabir

It took countless laughs and a flurry of videos for Fayaz Rather aka Fayaz Scorpio's father to break his silence: "Please leave my son alone, he's mentally confused."

But despite this poignant public-appeal, Fayaz's cringe-content remains a dark-and-dank humour in Kashmir's virtual space. Lately, when Fayaz showed up in Tulip Garden, his social media image became his real life ordeal. Surrounded by the jeering public for Selfies and scorns, the simpleton was seen struggling to maintain his normal stance.

"The pseudo celebrity hood created by social media is only compelling these people to add insult to their injuries," says Shakir Bashir, a tech-savvy teacher from Budgam.

"They willy-nilly become the part of Kashmir's cringe comedy circus where clowns are multiplying with each passing day."

The comic character, Fayaz Scorpio, suddenly surfaced online during the pandemic when he started introducing himself as a "deputy sarpanch" of Ratiabad.

His virtual rise was also catalyzed by his uncanny demand of Scorpio vehicle.

"His awkward mannerism and slurry speech instantly became the living room laughter in Kashmir," says Darakhshan Shah, a Sociology scholar currently researching on the new social trends and their impact on the society.

"While these clowns calling themselves as politicians have become a telling comment on us as a society, it also highlights our choice of content consumption today."

Like the scholar, the commoners today express anguish over the social media comedy having no precedence in politics as well as satire of Kashmir.

"Despite being nonsensical in letter and spirit, you still feel compelled to watch these clowns perform," says Imran Shah, a young entrepreneur from Srinagar. "Among other things, their naive political posturing is sidesplitting."

However, unaffected by the growing flak, Fayaz continues to amuse people with his uncanny style. He even dismisses his virtual followers as some political agents tasked to hound him.

In the same vein, he bashes the unionist camp for "everything wrong" in Kashmir.

"When there's a gap and silence in the mainstream political arena, then such people naturally crop up in the political field," opines Mushtaq Sidiqi, a political analyst.

"Kashmir may not be new to these clowns, but post 2019, their tribe is only growing."

Fayaz Scorpio's contemporary, Mohammed Shafi aka Babbars-Sher, is another example of what the amalgam of uncanny satire and delusional politics looks like.

Donning pantsuits, Shafi's satirical statements are probably everywhere on the internet—on Facebook reels, in Whatsapp forwarded videos, atop Instagram stories and inside the quick world of Twitter.

More than his decadal affiliation with Congress, it's his roaring avatar that has now become Shafi's new identity.

"His spontaneous sit-in protests, loud-mouthing and political stunts remind one of Er. Rasheed who wooed masses with his hothead politics," says a senior scribe.

"But unlike the erstwhile Langate lawmaker currently languishing in Tihar Jail, the current class of clowns lack tactic and treatment. They thrive on the cringe content."

Shafi's pro-people outbursts have also become a 'pain in the neck' for the established camp.

"While Kashmir's public representatives have been silenced, these clowns are freely boasting about their buffoon politics," says a senior Peoples Democratic Party leader.

"This is a big tragedy of our times!"

Apart from the 'twin paradox' seen on the Kashmir's virtual space, social media is getting diversified with a motley group of characters creating a new place of amusement in the valley.

"One can't always blame people for these comical characters," says Zubair Khan, a banker.

"Since Kashmiri social media users don't have much choice, so they consume this cringe content to divert their mind from the distressing situation."

Sayed, Mangat Clash At Cabinet Meeting

Observer News Service

JAMMU - Deputy Chief Minister Mangat Ram Sharma snubbed Chief Minister Mufti Mohammed Sayeed at a cabinet meeting here Tuesday, telling him he was not a "headmaster" who could dictate terms to his seniors in politics. Sharma walked out of the cabinet meeting in a huff, the second time he has done so in the past 16 months. He later flew to New Delhi, telling reporters he would apprise the Congress party leadership about Sayeed's "dictatorial behaviour".

Cabinet meeting was later postponed to April 22. On Jan 24, almost in similar circumstances, Sharma walked out of a cabinet meeting on being overruled on the appointment of Kashmir's senior most Indian Administrative Service officer KB. Pillni as chairman of the State Public Service Commission.

Ultimately, Sharma had to relent and reconcile to the choice of the chief minister.

Tuesday's walkout followed a verbal duel between the two over the use of 'improper' language by Sharma while conversing with Chief Secretary Sudhir S Belloria.

The meeting was to discuss a major administrative and police reshuffle in the state.

Sayed termed Sharma's conversation with the chief secretary as 'improper.'

"You should not use such language with the chief secretary," Sayeed told Sharma in the presence of the entire cabinet and some top officials.

Sharma allegedly told Belloria 'kar do Ji' (do it) instead of 'kar deelye' while marking the agenda for the day.

Sayed corrected him in front of the cabinet after which the deputy chief minister replied that he did not have to be (taught how to deal with the bureaucracy.

Sharma told Sayeed: "I am senior to you in politics by 11 years. You cannot treat me like a headmaster, and I am leaving." Sharma then burst out of the meeting Sayeed, the sources said, rubbed salt into Sharma's wounds by saying: "If you want to go, no one is going to stop you." He suggested that Congress President Sonia Gandhi should be informed about this incident. Chief Minister was quoted as saying. "How can the govt run amid this indiscipline?"

ADVENTURES IN ARCHIVES

Cluttered Academy

The cultural academy’s unseemly haste to shoo prominent Kashmiris into their graves shows how keen the undertakers of this region’s art culture and languages are to preside over the funeral of its heritage.

Even in this ghoulish enterprise, the academy cannot avoid the overarching element of farce which many believe has become its hallmark.

One could take a charitable view of the whole unsavoury episode and attribute the academy’s death notice of the editor-in-chief of the Srinagar Times, Sofi Ghulam Muhammad, to a genuine mistake, but to compound it by seeking to make amends by announcing the demise of another well known Sofi when that gentleman, too, was still with this world is incomprehensible. The academy did not even have the grace to go red in the face at this dual faux pas, but resorted to the stock official response of “inconvenience is regretted,” as if it had erred in notifying the price of mutton and poultry.

The academy seemed to have no appreciation of what it means to lose the founding chief editor of one of the oldest surviving newspapers of Kashmir, or a musical legend like Ghulam Hassan Sofi, both of whom have had deep associations with the institution. Apparently, the academy is so overloaded with literary and cultural geniuses that it can’t tell one from the other. One Sofi can do as well as another. The learned bosses of the academy could not even manage a decent biographical sketch of either of the victims of its necro-predilection, leave alone a graceful obituary worthy of the contributions of the supposedly departed subjects. What it eventually coaxed out of itself after a disingenuous condolence meeting of its babus in Jammu after Ghulam Hassan Sofi actually passed away was an atrocity on the soul of that gentle singer. Shot through with grammatical errors bordering on the obscene, the grudging press release was a rehash of news reports of the previous day. Evidently, the pillars of erudition in charge of the academy have such a low opinion of others that they deem it beneath themselves to monitor what the institution brings out about people who have made some mark in public life. Or else, the academy has become a den of incompetence and mediocrity exemplified by its atrociously drafted handouts, which, by the way, the press has been generously silent about.

That such travesty finds its way out of the academy unchecked is a scandal by itself for which big heads should roll, as the picture presented of the guardians of the state’s art, culture and languages is one of unconscionable ineptitude. And greater still is the scandal of such undeserving elements finding a place in an institution requiring at least a nodding acquaintance with the nuances of language.

The fiasco does nothing to instill confidence that the institution as currently run is qualified to do justice to the creative and literary talents in Kashmir or be a genuine platform for genuine talent to surface and flower. Rather, the cosmetic theatrics the academy sponsors in the name of native culture are a death knell for whatever survives of Kashmir’s unique ethos. Successive governments have done pitiful little in making the academy a true repository of native genius, often foisting people with dubious qualifications and credentials on this highly sensitive institution. More often than not, the academy and its exalted positions have become a means of dispensing favours to politically convenient elements or rewarding people useful in advancing some nefarious agenda. One such strand in this sneaky design is the pathetic state of the Kashmiri language, spoken in most of the state. The academy could have been a patron for the promotion of this language, if only it could disentangle itself from the shackles of bias and sycophancy.

National Education Policy 2020
Call for Inclusive Education

M Ahmad

Inclusive education generates and provides acceptance and understanding towards the needs of students and also identifies the differences, diversity and cultural background of the students. Simply placing the student with disabilities in the common class room is not enough; they need to be truly included and provided with opportunities to work alongside their peers

The Rights of Persons with Disabilities (RPWD) Act 2016 defines inclusive education as a ‘system of education wherein students with and without disabilities learn together and the system of teaching and learning is suitably adapted to meet the learning needs of different types of students with disabilities’. In an equitable and inclusive classroom every student has equal access to learning, is treated equitably by the learning community, and feels valued and supported by their instructor and peers. These learning environments emphasize the importance of cultural awareness, value all social identities, and consider the impact of systemic inequities . Identifying these important factors shapes the classroom experiences and impacts student learning. Equity and inclusion are an important part of designing educational spaces that address the needs of all students; it does not matter whether a student has a visible or invisible disability, English Language Learner, or an at-risk learner. This inclusive system recognises all student’s entitlement to a learning experience that respects diversity, enables participation, removes barriers and anticipates and considers a variety of learning needs and preferences. According to UNESCO, inclusive education is seen as “a process of addressing and responding to the diversity of needs of all learners through increasing participation in learning, cultures and communities, and reducing exclusion from education and from within education.” Countries across the globe are making efforts to develop inclusive education in their unique contexts. At the same time, the collaborative efforts by international agencies such as the World Bank, UNICEF, IIEP, UNESCO, donors and others in addition to the local and international DPOs focus on building a common understanding of the need for systemic change at the global and local levels.

Inclusive and equitable education, while indeed an essential goal in its own right, is also critical to achieve an inclusive and equitable society in which every citizen has the opportunity to dream, thrive, and contribute to the nation. The education system must aim to benefit all children so that no child loses any opportunity to learn and excel because of circumstances of birth or background. This Policy reaffirms that bridging the social category gaps in access, participation, and learning outcomes in school education will continue to be one of the major goals of all education sector development programmes. Equitable and inclusive teaching practices help create educational environments in which all individuals are welcomed, respected, supported, and valued to fully participate in the learning process

It is important to utilize formative assessments where students can monitor their progress throughout the course, before, during and after learning. Provide students the opportunity to demonstrate their learning in different modes and modalities. Doing so enhances the learning experience for all students and may increase their likelihood of success. There should be variability in activities to support all students. Design activities that encourage autonomy where students can contribute freely. Help students feel that their perspectives are valued and respected. Authentic activities may increase engagement and help students deepen their understanding. An inclusive classroom also encourages students to become more engaged in authentic experiences that are relevant to their lives and interests.

Classroom observations and reflective coaching conversations are essential components to building equitable, inclusive, and excellent schools. Teachers may set out with the best intentions to support all students, but nothing is predictable in school. Reflecting on our practices helps us understand what works well and what doesn’t work so well. Inclusive education involves transforming the whole education system - legislation and policy, systems for financing, administration, design, delivery and monitoring of education, and the way schools are organized. It takes time and money to change systems. Teachers need training and guidance, and students need to be provided with services to overcome barriers to learning. Action is needed to challenge negative attitudes and prejudice against children with disabilities.

Inclusive education will benefit from the widest possible experience and knowledge. It will be an end to discrimination, an end to excluding children with disabilities. Inclusive education generates and provides acceptance and understanding towards the needs of students and also identifies the differences, diversity and cultural background of the students. Simply placing the student with disabilities in the common class room is not enough; they need to be truly included and provided with opportunities to work alongside their peers. Teachers should also consider sharing with students that they all have diverse needs, which means that each student is unique to you.

Resurrection by Reading

Belen Fernandez

It has by now become platitudinous to remark that people hardly read books any more – and physical ones even less – absorbed as we are by the demands of the digital age: scrolling, clicking, obsessively checking likes, and converting emotions into sequences of little yellow faces.

As a child, I read books constantly – along with everything else: the magazine that arrived with the Austin American-Statesman every Sunday to my parents’ house in Texas, appliance warranty papers, the text on the cereal box at breakfast. Decades later as I travelled the world in my twenties and thirties, resurrecting the ravenous reading habit was always on my to-do list – and yet it was inevitably easier to just continue scrolling and clicking.

Prior to spending the month of February 2022 in Cuba, I had not read a book for leisure in nearly a year – and I had not even finished that one. Then, one afternoon in Havana, I was overcome with spontaneous determination and dispatched myself in search of a used bookstore.

Perhaps it was because I already associated Havana with used books, having visited the city in 2006 and acquired a massive biography of Cuban revolutionary hero Camilo Cienfuegos, which I then had carted around to various countries while my intention of reading it remained unfulfilled. Or perhaps it was because Havana – with its effusive nostalgia and much-fetishised old-world charm – simply made me feel like I should be engaged in some romantic, pre-technological activity like reading a book.

Whatever the reason for my sudden decision to be the person that actually goes to the bookstore rather than just fantasising about it, I set out from my flat by the port in Habana Vieja – Old Havana, the city’s colonial quarter – passing elegantly crumbling and not-so-crumbling architecture and former haunts of the likes of García Lorca and Hemingway.

When I reached Calle Obispo, site of the Hotel Ambos Mundos where Hemingway once lived and the sort of street that looked like it would host a used bookstore, I turned left – and, sure enough, there was Librería Victoria, the name rendered in art deco stained glass above the shop entrance. The interior was intoxicatingly crammed with heaps of books and only a faint hint of organisation beyond the obligatory prominent display of offerings from Fidel Castro and Che Guevara. Obviously, I could not proceed with my bookshop experience without first taking a photograph of the scene for placement on Facebook.

Thoughts of Facebook began to fade, however, as I rummaged through stacks of Borges and Neruda, Lenin and García Márquez, piles of children’s books and a shelf devoted to the Afro-Cuban struggle. In the end, I set aside two books by Uruguayan author Mario Benedetti, of whose existence I had been previously unaware, plus a book of poems by Neruda, and, finally, a Cuban atlas from 1978, the frayed blue cover of which had been invaded by a rust-coloured stain that had overtaken the “B” and “A” in “Cuba”.

The last addition caused some hesitation, as I weighed such issues as luggage weight and what exactly one does with a Cuban atlas from 1978. But whim won out over reason, and I presented my four items to the shopkeeper. Assuming that the prices pencilled in on the first page of each book were merely a jumping-off point for negotiations – particularly given the present financial situation in Cuba, where, for example, the 1,000 Cuban pesos pencilled in on the first page of the atlas corresponded to 40 dollars at the official exchange rate and 10 dollars on the black market – I offered some sum off the top of my head.

The man agreed and began packing up the books. I handed over the pesos, whereupon he reddited the math and found my offer retroactively to be insufficient. I attempted a gringo capitalist customer-is-always-right approach, according to which he could not renege on his initial acceptance; he countered by bellowing that I was crazy and launching into an impassioned recounting of all the times customers had accidentally overpaid and he had chased them down Calle Obispo to rectify matters. We shouted back and forth for several minutes – an exchange that was somehow not stressful in the least but rather, I felt, an ode to life. Then we were friends, and he gave me the books with a revised discount.

I lugged the treasures back to my flat, where I set them out on the table and reacquainted myself with the intimate thrill of inspecting used books and the sensation of holding history, as it were, in one’s hands. One of the Benedetti books had apparently been acquired by a B Valiño on April 2, 1970, while the other had belonged to a Rebeca with an indecipherable surname and included a page torn from a 1986 datebook: Thursday, February 6, through Wednesday, February 12.

By coincidence, the date of my visit to Librería Victoria was February 9 – albeit 36 years after the February 9 of the datebook page in question, which also bore the contact information of a certain María de los Angeles at the Psychology Department of the National University of Costa Rica in Heredia. By further coincidence, the book itself – titled, La Tregua (The Truce, published in 1960) – began with a diary entry on February 11. Before I had even started reading, then, I felt some sort of captivating personal connection to the texts – a connection that was tied up with B Valiño, Rebeca, and María de los Angeles of the Psychology Department.

There were no clues as to the provenance of the Neruda book, but inside I found dried rose petals in the fold preceding a 1953 poem inspired by Neruda’s then-lover Matilde Urrutia and the Italian island of Capri, evoking nostalgia for his native Chile. The upper right corner of page 141 was also folded over, and the title of that page’s poem, Con Ella (With Her), was underlined along with the poem’s first line: “Como es duro este tiempo; espérame” – “This time is difficult. Wait for me”.

On to the atlas, thanks to which I would spend countless hours poring over colourful maps depicting the mechanisation of Cuban sugar cane agriculture by province in 1978 and the average temperatures of regional surface waters in summer and winter. This was at least as good as reading the cereal box, I figured, and was certainly time better spent than on the wasteland of humanity known as social media. On pages 102 and 103, another map featured key landmarks of the Cuban Revolution as well as assorted imperial aggressions, including “counter-revolutionary infiltrations” and the inauguration of the US economic blockade of Cuba, illustrated by purple dashes surrounding the island. Officially enacted in 1962, the embargo continues to devastate the country as punishment for the felony of refusing to capitulate to capitalist domination.

Armed with my acquisitions from Librería Victoria in Havana, I was quickly reminded of how invigoratingly edifying reading can be – and felt I was pretty solidly exercising my “right to rest and leisure” as enshrined in Article 24 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Capitalism, of course, has different ideas about human rights, and prefers “leisure” activities that can be monetised – like staring at your mobile phone screen, where advertising saturation and limitless consumer opportunities mean you can still be contributing to corporate tyranny even under the illusion of downtime.

To be sure, reading books has been shown to improve mental health, reduce anxiety, and provide a necessary respite from real and digital worlds that are perhaps equally depressing. But it remains a luxury for many of the world’s inhabitants, who are often too busy trying to survive in a context of gross global inequality to think about the number of tractors in Cuba’s Ciego de Ávila province in 1978.

As Neruda wrote, “This time is difficult”. And as we plunge into ever more difficult ones – with less and less time to dream – here’s to more rose petals.

Fasting and Health in Ramazan

“Islamic fasting is different from these diet plans because in Ramadan fasting, there is no malnutrition or inadequate calorie intake. Aejaz Iqbal

RAMAZAN is a month of self-regulation and self-training. Muslims fast in accordance with our religious requirements, but there are medical benefits as well. Generally, fasting has been used by patients for weight management, to rest the digestive tract, and for lowering lipids. There can be adverse effects of both total fasting and crash diets. Islamic fasting is different from these diet plans because in Ramadan fasting, there is no malnutrition or inadequate calorie intake. The calorie intake of Muslims during Ramazan is typically at or slightly below the nutritional requirement guidelines. In addition, the fasting in Ramazan is voluntarily taken and is not a prescribed imposition from the physician. And there is hope that this training will last beyond the end of Ramazan. The difference between Ramazan and total fasting is the timing of the food; during Ramazan, we take an early pre-dawn breakfast and do not eat until dusk. The fast is from both food and liquid intake. Abstinence from water for eight to 10 hours is not necessarily bad for health. In fact, it causes concentration of all fluids within the body, producing slight dehydration. The body has its own water conservation mechanism. It has even been shown that slight dehydration and water conservation, at least in plant life, improve their longevity. The physiological effect of fasting includes lowering of blood sugar, lowering of cholesterol, and lowering of the systolic blood pressure. In fact, Ramazan fasting could be an ideal recommendation for the treatment of mild to moderate, stable, non-insulin diabetes, obesity, and essential hypertension. It is important to note that patients who are suffering from severe diseases, such as Diabetes or coronary artery disease, kidney stones are exempt from fasting and should not be allowed to fast. There are psychological effects of fasting as well. There is a peace and tranquility for those who fast during the month of Ramazan. Personal hostility is at a minimum, and in areas of the world where Muslims are living in large numbers, the crime rate decreases. This psychological improvement could be related to better stabilization of blood glucose while fasting; hypoglycemia after eating can aggravate behavior changes. There is a spiritual beneficial effect of extra prayer at night. This not only helps with better utilization of food, but also helps in energy output. It has been calculated that there are 10 extra calories output for each unit of the prayer. This would particularly be connected to the extra prayers that are performed during the last 10 nights of Ramazan, when the believer is seeking the night of power, when worship during this night is said to be worth a thousand months. It is important to emphasize that Muslims are not performing prayers for exercise, but a mild movement of the joints with extra calorie utilization can be a better form of exercise. Similarly, recitation of the Quran not only produces a tranquility of heart and mind, but it has also been shown to improve memory. Fasting is a special act of worship which is ultimately between the believer and the Creator Himself, as no one else knows for sure if this person is actually fasting. In a hadith of the Prophet Muhammad, peace and blessings be upon him, Allah says, "Fasting is for Me and I only will reward it." In another hadith, the Prophet reminds us, "If one does not give up falsehoods in words and actions, Allah has no need of him giving up food and drink. Fasting not only purifies a Muslim's soul but also his body. Fasting helps reduce weight and rejuvenate the body as food consumption is modified and the body gets a chance to cleanse itself of unwanted impurities and toxins. Ramazan brings with itself countless blessings and benefits. Observe fasting in Ramazan to be rewarded in this world and the Hereafter.

The Menstruating Woman's Guide To The Last 10 Nights Of Ramazan

Zainab bint Younus

While everyone else is gearing up for an epic last ten nights of Ramazan, those of us on our periods might feel rather deflated, and wonder how we can cash in on these nights -any of which could be Laylatul Qadr (the Night of Decree). Just because we are menstruating, doesn't mean that we need to miss out on the barakah of these days and nights! Fear not! Here's a handy-dandy Menstruating Woman's Guide to Hacking the Last 10 Nights of Ramazan (iced coffee in hand is optional)! Check out the end of this post for a surprise for all menstruating women in Ramazan that you can use as an easy resource AND share with all of your friends!

lation, or the Qur'an app on your phone/tablet. If you take the opinion that it is prohibited to recite Qur'an at all while menstruating, make a plan to read a translation or tafseer during the days of your period, or listen to tafseer talks at that time. The priority is that you maintain a strong connection to the Qur'an. Du'a: Refine your du'a list! Include du'as from the Qur'an & Sunnah, recommended du'as for Ramazan, and of course, your own personal list of priorities for yourself, your family, and this Ummah. Here's an excellent resource on a special du'a: the best of both worlds. Dhikr & Istighfar: Amp up your dhikr and istighfar -while you're cooking, doing chores, puttering about, driving, literally doing anything! There are so many beautiful forms of adhkaar that will reap you more ajr than you can imagine. Spend time reflecting on your sins and seek sincere forgiveness: Al-lahumma innaka 'afuwun, tuhibb al-'afwa, fa'fu 'annee. Sadaqah: Sadaqah can come in almost any form, whether it is financially giving in charity, helping friends or strangers with kindness and a smile, donating your time and lending your voice to the Ramazan Activism Campaign, or even serving your family with love. Preparing iftaar alone will give you the reward of the fasting person you have fed (without anything being taken from them)! Sadaqah in the last ten nights is something that has no limits for any believer. Whoever helps break the fast of a fasting person, he will have the same reward as him without decreasing anything from the reward of the fasting person. [Tirmidhi] Tadabbur: Spend time reflecting on the Qur'an and your relationship with Allah subhānahu wa ta'āla (glorified and exalted be He), your spiritual journey and progress this Ramazan, and what you have left to accomplish this Ramazan. Make sure to reference and study scholarly tafaaseer along the way. Qur'an journaling is a great way to do this! Seeking Knowledge: Keep up with reading tafseer/spiritual books or listening to Islamic lectures and reminders. There are so many amazing scholars (including women!) who are tirelessly producing content on these topics daily, mashaAllah! Some excellent female scholars to turn to, who provide regular Islamic talks and classes, are Shaykha Dr. Haifaa Younis, Anse Dr. Tamara Gray, Shaykha Aysa Wazwaz, Shaykha Dr. Rania Awaad, Shaykha Maryam Amir, and others. Renew Your Intentions: Allah subhānahu wa ta'āla (glorified and exalted be He) knows exactly what worship you would do if you weren't menstruating -He is the Most Generous and will reward you for it all anyway inshaAllah! Know that abstaining from fasting and salah during haydh is in itself an act of obedience and worship. Serving your family, facilitating 'ibaadah for others, preparing iftaar, and helping others are all actions that will result in great reward, with the right intentions. "Indeed, actions are by their intentions; indeed, every person will have only what they intended." [Sahih Bukhari] Shukr: Be thankful to Allah subhānahu wa ta'āla (glorified and exalted be He). Slow down and recognize all the blessings around you, yes-even your menses. In His Mercy and Wisdom, we are permitted to eat and drink during the daytime of Ramazan. We are given the space to care for our bodies as well as our souls, to nourish ourselves physically as well as spiritually (so enjoy that iced coffee and taste-testing the samosas before anyone else can!). Fulfill your body's rights by taking care of yourself: eat well, take your vitamins, and rest as you need to. The last ten nights of Ramazan are blessed and special for all believers, not just those who are fasting. Menstruating women (or those in nifaas) during this time are not excluded from the many, many acts of worship and amazing opportunities for forgiveness and reward. Don't lose hope -or lose steam- in your Ramazan efforts during this time just because you cannot fast or pray. Instead, be focused on creating a Ramazan plan of action for the last ten nights, especially if you are menstruating. May Allah subhānahu wa ta'āla (glorified and exalted be He) make us of those who benefit the most from the last ten nights of Ramazan, ameen!

militants after they attacked a bus carrying the paramilitary personnel in the early hours of Friday.

Director General of Police (DGP) Dilbag Singh had said the two militants were part of a suicide squad of Pakistan-based JeM and their infiltration could be a "big conspiracy" to sabotage the prime minister's visit to Jammu and Kashmir on the occasion of National Panchayati Raj day on Sunday.

Palli panchayat, 17 kms from Jammu city, was virtually sealed with local police and paramilitary personnel including Border Security Force (BSF) and Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF) deployed in strength to keep a strict vigil, the officials said.

They said the venue, which is just three kilometres from the Jammu-Pathankot highway, has been made out of bounds for the general public as part of the security arrangements for the Prime Minister's public rally his first after the abrogation of special status to J&K under Article 370 and the bifurcation of the erstwhile state in August 2019.

Arrangements for over one lakh people including over 30,000 panchayat members have been made at the venue of the public meeting, the officials said.

"The encounter took place two days ahead of the prime minister's visit. It is part of a big conspiracy to disturb the peaceful atmosphere of Jammu and it could be a big conspiracy to sabotage the visit," the DGP had said at the end of the gunfight, adding "it is good that we got timely inputs and the operation was concluded successfully."

On Saturday, the joint security parties were seen patrolling the entire stretch from Bari Brahmana along the highway to Palli chowk which was also decorated with large hoarding to welcome the Prime Minister and also announce various projects and industrial investments to be inaugurated by him.

Additional joint security check points with reinforcements have come up at various places leading to the venue of the function besides other places including district headquarters and vital installations to scuttle any attempt by the militants to carry out any attack, the officials said.

The commuters on highways and peripheral roads are also being thoroughly checked and frisked, the officials said, adding the border security grid and highway grid have also been strengthened in the wake of Friday's encounter in Jammu city.

In addition to the multi-tier security arrangements, the officials said some high-end surveillance equipment have been inducted into security setup to ensure fool proof security.

Traffic police Jammu has already issued an advisory in connection with the prime minister's visit, announcing certain restrictions and route plans for the public to reach the venue.

Heavy load carriers including wheat cutting machines and load carriers were asked not to play on April 24 on the national highway (Jammu-Pathankot) as well as ring roads and adjoining areas of the venue, the advisory said.

The traffic police also declared no parking zones' a certain stretch of the highway near Bari Brahmana and Palli to Ratnal Chowk.

The prime minister is expected to launch industrial investments worth Rs 70,000 crore and inaugurate and lay foundation of some developmental projects including two power projects during his first public meeting in Jammu region after August 2019 development.

However, Modi had earlier celebrated Diwali with Army jawans on October 27, 2019 in Rajouri and on November 3, 2021 in Nowshera sector in Jammu division.

NIA Chief Reviews

evening, was accompanied by Inspector General of CRPF, Jammu sector, P S Ranpise.

Singh, who is also the director general of the Central Reserve Police Force, was briefed about the gun battle by CRPF officers, including Commandant of 38th Battalion Dharendra Verma, the officials said.

The NIA director general also visited the venue of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's public rally at Palli panchayat in Samba district and reviewed the security situation, they said.

Besides the two militants, a Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) officer died in the gunfight that took place near an Army camp in Sunjwan on Friday. Nine security personnel were also injured as forces engaged the militants after they attacked a bus carrying CISF personnel.

"Yes, a major attack was thwarted (by security forces)," Singh said after receiving the briefing about the encounter.

Asked whether the NIA will take over the case, he said, "It will depend... we will see, nothing can be said at the moment."

On the security arrangements for the prime minister's visit, he said all the necessary arrangements will be made.

Later, the officials said, Singh visited Palli panchayat and was briefed by senior officers about the security arrangements there.

Special teams of the NIA and the State Investigation Agency (SIA) had visited the encounter site on Friday evening.

Director General of Jammu and Kashmir Police Dilbag Singh had said the two slain militants were part of a suicide squad of Pakistan-based JeM and their infiltration could be a "big conspiracy" to sabotage the prime minister's visit to Jammu and Kashmir.

The prime minister will visit Palli village, 17 km from here, on National Panchayati Raj Day on April 24. He is also scheduled to address a gathering there.

According to officials, a multi-tier security setup has been put in place for Modi's visit.

An alert has been sounded along the border and a high degree of vigilance is being maintained at vital installations in Jammu and Kashmir in view of the visit, officials said on Friday.

Two South Kashmir

officer said on Saturday.

Additional Director General of Police (ADGP) Mukesh Singh said the force is looking for two more conspirators involved in the planning and transportation of the two heavily-armed militants from Sapwal near the International Border in Samba district to Jammu.

As per one of the arrested persons, the slain militants were Pashto-speaking either from a village in Pakistan bordering Afghanistan or from Afghanistan itself, the Jammu police chief told reporters here in the evening.

An Assistant Sub-Inspector of the Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) was killed when the militants equipped with suicide vests and sophisticated weapons attacked a bus before being engaged and killed by the security forces in Jallabad locality of Sunjwan on Friday. Nine security personnel, including two policemen, were also injured in the incident.

The ADGP said a case under relevant sections of the Indian Penal Code, the Arms Act and the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act was registered at police station Bahu Fort in connection with the encounter.

During investigation, police on the basis of technical analysis succeeded in effecting the arrest of a person - Shafiq Ahmed Sheikh of Mir Mohalla village in south Kashmir's Tral, who had facilitated the stay of militants in Jallalabad area of Jammu, Singh said.

On the disclosure of Sheikh, he said, one more person, Mohammad Iqbal Rather of Malwan village in south Kashmir's Kulgam, in whose residence at Jallalabad the militants had hidden themselves, was also detained.

The analysis of the mobile tower as well as the internet data usage of the general area led to suspicion on a person named Bilal Ahmed Beig of south Kashmir's Kokarnag who had received the militants on the border at Sapwal in Samba district and brought them to Jallalabad area before handing them to Sheikh, Singh said.

He said Sheikh also revealed that his brother, Asif, helped in finding a place for the accommodation of militants as well as provided mobile phones to the militants.

The technical analysis of the CCTVs in the Jallalabad area as well as highway corroborates the disclosure of the arrested person, the ADGP said, adding a search is on for Beig and Asif who are absconding.

He said Sheikh also disclosed that the two militants were not speaking Kashmiri, Dogri, Hindi or Urdu.

When he was made to hear Pashto, he immediately recognised the language of the militants which indicate that they were either from an area of Pakistan border near Afghanistan or Afghanistan itself, he said.

Responding to a question about the route taken by the militants to infiltrate into this side from Pakistan, the officer said whether they came through an underground tunnel or crossed the border fence is part of the investigation, which is underway.

After the encounter, police teams worked tirelessly day and night to establish the identity of the conspirators who were behind this plan to carry out a suicide attack in Jammu, he said.

On the basis of technical analysis and evidence, the police first zeroed in on Sheikh, who works at a walnut factory at Narwal, which is not far away from the scene of the encounter, Singh said.

The ADGP said Sheikh and his brother Asif are deeply involved with militants of JeM.

Asif created a telegram ID called Pagal Jamaat' (Mad group) for Shafeeq and also provided him a mobile phone with a SIM card. He also contacted a JeM commander in Pakistan by the name of Veer', his telegram identity, Singh said.

He said the commander of JeM instructed him to go to Jammu to receive a group of suicide attackers who will be brought by someone.

Though he did not disclose his name, the person was identified as Sheikh who set out on the instructions of JeM commander from Kashmir's Pulwama at 10 am on April 20 and reached Jammu around evening time.

He stayed at Transport Nagar and at around 12 am (midnight), he set out for Sapwal (border) in Samba and picked up two militants of JeM. They boarded a medium size truck loaded with empty vegetable crates and neatly created cavity among the crates for hiding the militants, the police officer said.

They reached Jallabad locality of Sunjwan around 2.30 am and Wagay, his co-driver and two militants were found in the truck there.

Sheikh received the militants and took them to his house where they stayed during the day and discussed their plans with their handlers across the border, Singh said.

The plan was to take them to the nearest security location and inflict maximum casualties on the security forces, to discourse the VVIP visit, the ADGP said, referring to the scheduled visit of Prime Minister Narendra Modi to Palli Panchayat in Samba on Sunday.

Before these people could set out for their mission, we received intelligence inputs that there are two militants and a cordon was laid with other security forces. The militants were holed up throughout the night, he said, adding had they moved out, they could have caused huge damage but we managed to keep them there and successfully eliminated them.

He said that they were picked up from Sapwal border in Samba was further collaborated by the CCTV evidence along the way.

We are working on the leads and are hopeful to arrest both the absconding accused person soon. Our counterparts in Kashmir are also actively pursuing the leads and more arrests are likely as the investigation progresses, he said.

Asked about reports suggesting infiltration of some more militants into this side, the officer said this group consisted of only two members, adding further investigation is on.

Will Cross Border

Praising the valour displayed by Indian soldiers in the recent standoffs with China, he said, "I am of the firm belief that no power in the world can do anything to bow down the head of Bharat Mata' (Mother India)."

Taking a dig at a section of opposition leaders who had questioned the Army's role in the matter, Singh said such criticism demoralised soldiers and hurt the sentiments of people.

"I am regularly in contact with chiefs of our armed forces. I told them what I had to and they did what they had to. They have kept Bharat Mata's head held high," he added.

Singh also said that the eastern boundary of the country was currently experiencing more peace and stability compared to the western frontier, with Bangladesh being a friendly neighbour.

"The tension that India experiences on western frontier does not exist along eastern boundary as Bangladesh is a friendly country," he noted.

"The problem of infiltration has almost ended. There is peace and stability at the border (in the eastern frontier) now," the minister said.

The defence minister praised the Border Road Organisation (BRO) for its efforts in building strong boundary infrastructure, needed for defence preparedness.

"We have stronger border infrastructure now, but more has to be done and we are working on it, he stated.

On the recent withdrawal of Armed Forces (Special Powers) Act (AFSPA) from different parts of northeast, the defence minister stated that the government did so whenever the situation in a place improved.

He said, "When I was the Union home minister, AFSPA was lifted from Arunachal Pradesh (most parts) and Meghalaya. Now under Amit Shah, it has been withdrawn from 23 districts of Assam and areas under 15 police stations each in Manipur and Nagaland.

"Durable peace and stability has ensured that AFSPA gets withdrawn from the northeast and the role of chief ministers in the region has also been commendable, with Assam's Himanta Biswa Sarma taking the leading," he noted.

Maintaining that there was a "public misconception" that the Army always wanted AFSPA to remain in force, Singh contended the Army's job is not to look after internal security but to guard the borders.

On continued imposition of AFSPA in Jammu and Kashmir, the minister said, The situation is responsible for it, not the Army.

Lauding the role of serving soldiers and veterans in protecting the country, the defence minister said, The soldiers are our strength and the veterans and veer naris' (widows of martyrs) our inspiration.

"Even when a soldier retires and becomes a veteran, the warrior inside him lives on and it can be seen in his 'tevar' (attitude), body language," he added.

He also called on the general people to ensure that brotherhood is maintained within the country while the soldiers keep peace on the borders.

"We don't notice religion when a person dons the uniform and becomes a soldier for the country.

"People of different religions had worked together in the 1971 War this social harmony of Assam, India should not be broken," he said, felicitating war widows, families of martyrs, prisoners of war and former personnel who had suffered injuries in the 1971 battle.

He also inaugurated an exhibition by Directorate of Sainik Welfare, showcasing the valour and supreme sacrifice of armed forces in the liberation war.

Later in a tweet, Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said that nine war widows were honoured with Rs 10 lakh each, eight personnel who had suffered injuries with Rs 5 lakh each and two ex-prisoners of War with Rs 2.5 lakh each.

An amount of Rs 2 lakh each was also given to 86 other veterans of the liberation war, he added.

Daily Wagers To Get

Daily wagers are playing a significant role in the development of UT with exemplary commitment and dedication to work. The interim measure has been taken to benefit a sizable portion of the workforce. We are firmly committed to ensure the welfare and well-being of all daily wagers and the government will leave no stone unturned to establish principles of equality, welfare, and social justice in the governance, the Lt Governor said.

While we are fast-tracking the process on minimum wages, the interim measure reflects the UT administration's concern to make growth and progress inclusive.

Together we can confront the challenges of the future and there is no doubt that daily wagers and casual labourers will also carry forward the process of social and economic change, he added.

As the process of notifying the minimum wages by the Labour and Employment Department will take at least three months, a decision for interim measures was taken to benefit daily wagers in all government departments and those of municipalities and local bodies, officials said.

Prayers, Processions Mark Martyrdom Anniversary Of Imam Ali In Kashmir

Observer News Service

SRINAGAR: Thousands of fasting Muslims thronged shrines and Imambargahs on Saturday to mark the martyrdom anniversary of Imam Ali ibn Abi Talib (AS), one of the most revered icons of Islam.

Every year, on the 21st day of Ramadan, mourners gather in mosques and religious centers across many parts of the Muslim world to attend ceremonies commemorating the martyrdom anniversary of first Imam and fourth 'Rightly Guided' Caliph.

The biggest gathering was witnessed in Najaf al Ashraf, in Iraq, the resting place of Imam Ali. Iraqi officials said hundreds of thousands of pilgrims from all across the world have assembled in the holy city to pay tributes to great companion of the Prophet of Islam (Pbuh).

It was on the 19th of Ramadan 40 AH (27 January AD 661), Imam Ali was struck on the head with a poison-coated sword during the morning prayers in the Great Mosque of Kufa. He passed away two days later. The night preceding Imam Ali's martyrdom is considered to be one of the three-fold Qadr (Destiny) Nights, when the Holy Quran was revealed to Prophet Muhammad (Pbuh) more than 14 centuries ago.

Muslims hold night-long vigils on Qadr Nights, reciting the holy Quran and praying until dawn.

In Kashmir major functions on the occasion were held at

Maulana Masroor Abbas Ansari delivering sermon on the martyrdom anniversary of Imam Ali (AS) at Mirgund, Pattan on Saturday

Hazratbal, Zadihal and Hasanabad in Srinagar, Mirgund in Baramulla and in Budgam town.

Thousands joined the procession at Mirgund, Pattan after Shia leader Maulana Masroor Abbas Ansari gave his sermon eulogizing the great personality and highlighting importance of his teachings for the present era. Maulana emphasized on the need for Muslims to study the heroic life of Hazrat Ali (AS) in order to come out of present chaos and confusion.

"We should follow the teachings of Imam Ali in these difficult times. He was not only a brave warrior but a kind ruler as well. He possessed the best qualities in battlefield and outside," Maulana Masoor said.

He said that Imam Ali was guardian of orphans and friends of the poor and needy.

"The need of the hour for our youth is to follow Imam Ali's footsteps for a successful life," he said.

Peoples Conference leader and President Shia Association Imran Raza Ansari also addressed a gathering at Zadihal Imambargah.

"Imam Ali was the sea of patience and tolerance," Ansari said. He said that towering personality of Hazrat Ali had this honor of being born in the house of Allah Kabba - and also achieving his martyrdom in the house of Allah Masjid Kufa.

Similar commemorative functions were held at Budgam and Bemina by two factions of Anjuman-e-Sharie Shiyani. Processions and night long prayer meets were held in villages across length and breadth of Kashmir, reports said.

In Ladakh division massive processions were brought out in Kargil, Zanskar and Leh.

Frequent Power Cuts Hampering Religious Practices During Ramazan, Allege Residents

Press Trust Of India

SRINAGAR: Kashmir is going through one of its worst power crisis as unscheduled and prolonged cuts in supply in the holy month of Ramazan have left the people distraught.

People in the Valley said there was disruption in power supply especially at the time of Sehri' (when pre-dawn meals to begin the day's fast are taken) and If-tar' (when the fast is broken).

The Kashmir Power Distribution Corporation Limited (KP-DCL), for its part, said the entire country, and not just Kashmir, was facing power crisis due to shortage of coal and imbalance in demand and supply.

There has been hardly a day when we have had electricity at the time of Sehri or If-tar. During the day, the situation gets worse. We have never faced such a situation before, Javid Ahmad, a resident of Ganderbal, said.

The scenario is not better in Jammu and Kashmir's summer capital Srinagar, where many areas are metered.

In winters, we used to get power supply as per the schedule. But as soon as we entered the holy month, we began facing issues in electricity supply. We pay bills on time, but rarely have we have had power (supply) at Sehri and If-tar. This has created a lot of inconvenience, Mohammad Yusuf, a local, said.

People complained that the situation was far worse in non-metered areas.

We have more hours of power cut than supply. Most of the evenings, our areas go dark, Umar Ahmad, a resident of downtown Srinagar said.

The locals have been regularly taking to social media to flag their concerns. However, it has not helped, they alleged.

The National Conference (NC) on Saturday said Kashmir was facing a huge power crisis and appealed to Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha to intervene so that the people did not face any hardships in the remaining days of the holy month.

The ground situation, the feedback we are getting, what we see in the media... this is a huge crisis, something which has never been seen before. Electricity is snapped at Sehri', If-tar' and Taraweeh' (night prayers), NC general secretary Ali Mohammad Sagar said here.

He said the Lieutenant Governor had assured the people to have directed the authorities to look into the issue. However, the problem persisted.

We appeal to the L-G to seek answers from the authorities about the problems being faced by the people. We have our own power sources. We are also procuring electricity from outside, which the administration says incurs losses to the government. But the electricity is not reaching the people. This raises doubts about the reasons given for the power outage, the NC general secretary said.

The Kashmir Chamber of Commerce and Industry (KCCI) also expressed its concern over the unscheduled power cuts.

We have never seen such worst and frequent cuts in the holy month, especially during Sehri and If-taar, a KCCI spokesman said.

In the past, the governments and administrations tried to help the people during Ramzan, but harrowing experiences are unfolding in the holy month this year, the chamber said.

Patients, who are on oxygen support at their homes, were struggling throughout, it added. KPDC chief engineer Javid Yusuf said there was coal shortage across the country, leading to frequent power cuts.

Also, there is less power supply, but the demand is huge, and then the electricity generation in hydro power projects in the union territory is poor due to less rainfall, he said.

Officials said the demand for electricity in Kashmir is around 1,600 megawatt (MW), while the supply is only of about 900 to 1100 MW.

SAMBA RAPE CASE

SHO Among 3 Cops Suspended For Dereliction Of Duty

Press Trust Of India

JAMMU: Three policemen have been suspended and a deputy superintendent of police has been removed for alleged delay in registration of a rape case in Jammu and Kashmir's Samba district, officials said.

On the orders of Director General of Police (DGP) Dilbag Singh, they will also face a departmental inquiry for dereliction of duty in the matter related to the rape of a minor girl.

Station House Officer (SHO) Ali Imran, Assistant Sub-Inspector Rattan Lal, Head Constable Sawinder Singh were placed under suspension and Sub Divisional Police Officer (SDPO) Vijaypur, Vishal Manhas, was removed from his post and attached with Zonal police headquarter for "poor supervision and control", the officials said.

As per the complaint, a heinous crime was committed with an 11-year-old girl by accused Shammil after entering her house in Bazigar Basti in Vijaypur tehsil on intervening night of April 16 and 17, they said.

The mother of girl approached the police station Vijaypur but the SHO and other officials caused delay in registration of case and exercised undue influence and changed the nature of the complaint while forcing complainant to enter into compromise with the accused, the officials said.

The minor girl and mother were not treated as per the laid down procedure of POSCO, they said.

As the DGP came to know about the case and role of officials through a report of Criminal Investigation Department (CID), he ordered probe through crime branch, and special team confirmed the commission of offence against the minor girl, prompting the SHO to register a delayed case in this regard, they said.

As per the order issued by DGP, the conduct of some of these officials is unbecoming and warrant action as the duties were not performed in the given manner, which amount to grave dereliction of duty. They connive in avoiding the registration of the case and investigation into the heinous crime, the order said.

DGP also ordered a departmental inquiry against them headed by Commandant Radhmi Wazir.

NATIONAL PANCHAYATI RAJ DAY

Dr Raja Muzaffar Bhat

The Panchayati Raj system as we see it today in Jammu & Kashmir has a history and struggle behind it. It is said that the Panchayati system was first introduced by Maharaja Hari Singh around 1935 for settling local disputes of the people in rural areas. Village Panchayat Regulation Act No. 1 was publicized by the Maharaja.

The preamble of the said act read as "it is expedient to establish in Jammu and Kashmir State the village panchayats to assist in the administrative, civil and criminal justice and also to manage the sanitation and other common concerns of the village".

The 1935 Panchayati Act was not to promote the Panchayati Raj system of governance in J&K but to use these panchayats in assisting judicial and civil administration.

In 1947 when the Dogra ruler Maharaja Hari Singh's regime ended and all powers were transferred to Sheikh Mohammad Abdullah, the Panchayati Raj Act was again amended in 1951 and 1958. However, the institution was kept confined within village level affairs only.

The Panchayat means some members and a sarpanch and even the members of the Panchayat were nominated by the government only. This practice continued till late eighties. It was only in 1989 when the Government of Jammu & Kashmir came up with new legislation. The Jammu & Kashmir Panchayati Raj Act 1989 was enacted.

This Act is still applicable and provides for the three-tier Panchayati Raj system in the state, viz Halqa Panchayat, Block development council (Block Simiti) and District Planning & Development Board also known as Zila parishad in other states. The most important provision in this act was Panchayati Adalat (a judicial role of Panchayats) with powers of settling all non-criminal local disputes. Panchayati Elections

Under the JK Panchayati Raj Act 1989 the first Panchayat election was held in Jammu & Kashmir in 2000, however, most of the seats remained vacant at that time because of militant threats. The term of this panchayat came to end in 2005 and no elections were held in the state in the following six years. It was only in 2011 when free and fair panchayat elections were held in J&K with unrepresented participation of people.

The then Chief Minister Omar Abdullah took an initiative and conducted Panchayat elections in the entire state. These elections by and large were successful and almost all seats were filled.

Although there was a practice of Panchayat elections in Jammu and Kashmir but it was not mandatory. These elections were held in the past as and when the state government wanted.

There was no constitutional binding for the Govt to conduct fresh elections after the expiry of 6 years term of the Panchayats under JK Panchayati Raj Act 1989. Even the elections that were held in 2011 were held for 1st tier called Halqa Panchayat comprising a Sarpanch and some Panches.

For block or district council no elections were held, which indicated non-seriousness of politicians of J&K vis a vis Panchayati Raj. The institution was not let to go up to second or third tier despite the provision being in place in Jammu & Kashmir Panchayati Raj Act 1989. The main reason behind this was that the local Govt never wanted to decentralize power.

J&K Panchayat Conference The actual struggle for three tier PRI system in Jammu & Kashmir began in the year 2012 with the group of Sarpanches led by Shafiq Mir a Sarpanch from Poshana village in district Poonch came forward to organise the members of the panchayats in J&K.

He was the first person to organize various Panchayat associations under one umbrella called All J&K Panchayat Conference. Since then there was no looking back for the leaders of this organization. This J&K Panchayat Conference led by Shafiq Mir stood like a rock in all the odd times when several panchayat members were killed by militants in J&K.

On seeing the gravity of the situation, on September 27, 2012 Congress leader Rahul Gandhi invited this group of Sarpanches led by Shafiq Mir to Delhi and held two days long deliberations with them in presence of the then Minister of State for Home Jiten-dra Singh to find out the ways how to build confidence among the Panchayat leaders of Jammu & Kashmir who were on resigning spree at that point of time.

Finally it was decided that Rahul Gandhi himself will visit Kashmir and meet the Panchayat members. On 4th October 2012 Rahul Gandhi reached Srinagar and met with the Panchayat leaders at SKICC Srinagar to build their confidence and assured them all help in empowerment of Panchayats.

Though Rahul Gandhi wanted to extend 73rd amendment of constitution to Jammu & Kashmir but his government partner in the J & K National Conference was reluctant to implement this constitutional amendment on the pretext of article 370.

In the year 2014 BJP- PDP came into power in Jammu & Kashmir. In the first stroke this government dissolved all Panchayats prematurely two years before its term completion. However, by that time All J&K Panchayat Conference had become a strong voice and it started its struggle again and finally around 40 member delegation of this organization met with Prime Minister Modi in New Delhi on November 5th 2016 and demanded the fresh Panchayat elections and implementation of 73rd amendment of Indian constitution regarding Panchayati Raj in Jammu & Kashmir.

This was the time when the whole valley was shut after the killing of a prominent militant commander Burhan Wani in July that year. It was a very bold decision of the organization at that time because it was the step seen as against the winds.

This proved a significant meeting with PM Modi and he gave his full support to the organization and assured them to hold fresh elections in the state of Jammu and Kashmir although the PDP lead Govt in Jammu & Kashmir was not ready to conduct the elections fearing bloodshed. Finally, in 2018 after the collapse of PDP -BJP Government Panchayat elections were announced by PM Modi but all the political parties of Jammu & Kashmir Particularly NC and PDP openly boycotted those elections and militants had already given boycott calls.

IPL: Aiming to Arrest Slide, Struggling MI Take On LSG

Press Trust of India

MUMBAI: Virtually out of the playoff race and struggling on multiple fronts, a horribly out-of-sorts Mumbai Indians will need a special team effort to arrest their slide when they take on Lucknow Super Giants in a return-leg IPL fixture here on Sunday.

With seven defeats in as many matches, MI are winless this season and are languishing at the bottom with nothing going right for the five-time champions, who have failed to win the crunch moments and will need a miracle to make it to the playoffs.

Lucknow, on the other hand, have looked in good touch with four wins from seven matches but they are coming into the match after suffering a 18-run loss to Royal Challengers Bangalore.

However, the fact that LSG beat MI by 18 runs in their first leg will give them confidence.

The defeat also handed MI the dubious record of becoming the first team in IPL history to lose its first seven matches in a season.

One of the reasons for MI's downfall is the poor form of its openers Sharma and Ishant Kishan.

While both were out for a duck against CSK, Kishan has fared slightly better than his skipper, scoring 191 runs against 114 runs by Sharma.

With just 96 runs, all-rounder Kieron Pollard has failed to live up to the expectations of the franchise, which decided to retain him.

In bowling, MI has mostly relied on Jasprit Bumrah even as the rest cut a sorry figure.

Australia's Riley Meredith and debutant Hritik Shokeen had a decent outing but MI will have to produce a much superior effort to tame LSG's formidable batting at Wankhede Stadium.

Lucknow's batting has been led by skipper KL Rahul (265 runs), who had slammed an unbeaten 60-ball 103 the last time the two teams faced off on April 16.

He is the second highest runs scorer this season. Other opener Quinton de Kock (215 runs) too has been in good rhythm.

In bowling, the pace-spin duo of Avesh Khan and Ravi Bishnoi have served them well with LSG having the luxury of some quality all-rounders such as Jason Holder and Marcus Stoinis.

In the multi-talented duo, the new-entrants have two powerful players who add lot of depth in both bowling and batting.

No Ball Controversy: Pant, Thakur Handed Fines, Amre Suspended

Press Trust of India

MUMBAI: Captain Rishabh Pant was on Saturday fined 100 per cent of his match fee, while assistant coach Pravin Amre was handed a one-match ban for breaching the IPL Code of Conduct during Delhi Capitals' 15-run loss to Rajasthan Royals.

Besides the one match ban, Amre was also fined his entire match fees, while DC pacer Shardul Thakur too has been penalised 50 per cent of his match-fees, IPL said in a release.

The trio were penalised for their conduct during the controversial final over of the match in which Delhi Capitals required 36 runs to win on Friday night.

Needing 36 runs for a win off the final over, DC batter Rovman Powell hit three successive sixes from the first three deliveries, including the third ball which was a hip-high full-toss from Obed McCoy, to bring the equation down to 18 runs from the final three balls.

However, the DC camp demanded that the third ball be called a no ball for height with Pant asking his batters -- Powell and Kuldeep Yadav to walk out and assistant coach Amre stepping on to the playing arena to speak to the umpire.

Pant admitted to the "Level 2 offence" under Article 2.7 of the IPL Code of Conduct and "accepted the sanction".

Thakur also accepted the sanction for the "Level 2 offence under Article 2.8" of the IPL Code of Conduct and accepted the sanction.

Handed a one-match ban, Amre too "admitted to the Level 2 offence under Article 2.2 of the IPL Code of Conduct and accepted the sanction."

It started with Kuldeep, who was at the non-striker's end, gesturing to the umpires to check for a possible no-ball on height after the third delivery. Powell joined in having a chat with the umpires too. But the umpires stood their ground, saying the delivery was legal.

Pant looked livid and called Kuldeep and Powell back, while assistant coach Shane Watson tried to reason him out.

Amre then went into the playing arena but he was told to go back by the umpires.

RR legspinner Yuzvendra Chahal tried to stop Kuldeep from walking out, while Royals opener Jos Buttler, who hit a match-winning 116, was also seen having words with Pant near the boundary line.

Man United Loses 3-1 At Arsenal, Further Damages Top-4 Hopes

Agencies

LONDON: Despite Cristiano Ronaldo making an emotional scoring return, United was beaten 3-1 at Arsenal in the Premier League on Saturday and dropped six points off its rival in the race for a top-four finish.

Granit Xhaka blew kisses to the home fans — who have often criticized him — after his long-range, 70th-minute strike clinched victory for Arsenal in a wild game at Emirates Stadium that saw the hosts lead 2-0 after 32 minutes on goals by Nuno Tavares and Bukayo Saka before withstanding a fight-back from United launched by Ronaldo's 100th Premier League goal.

The Portugal superstar, who missed the 4-0 loss to Liverpool on Tuesday while grieving the death of his newborn son, raised his left arm and pointed to the sky after scoring in the 34th minute. Ronaldo might have had a chance to score an equaliser when United was awarded a penalty in the 55th after the ball struck the raised hand of Tavares at a corner. But instead of Ronaldo taking the spot kick, compatriot Bruno Fernandes took over and sent a weakly hit effort against the outside of the post following his trademark stuttering run-up.

To make matters worse for Fernandes, it was his miscontrol that gave Xhaka the opportunity to take aim and claim the crucial third goal for Arsenal, which climbed into fourth place above north London rival Tottenham.

Sixth-place United has four games left of a miserable season that will end with no trophies — for the fifth straight year — and see Ten Hag take over from Rangnick, the second of two caretaker managers installed by the club since Ole Gunnar Solskjaer was fired in November. (AP)

KARACHI: Pakistan opener Abid Ali has been given the green light to resume his international career, four months after suffering a heart attack.

The 34-year-old had undergone an angioplasty a day after he was rushed to a hospital for chest pain while playing a match in the Quaid-e-Azam Trophy in Karachi last December.

"I am really excited to be back with the prospect of playing for Pakistan again. Doctors cleared me to go back in the field and I can finally return to live a normal life," Abid told 'ESPNCricinfo'.

"I will be on medicines for some time because of the stents implanted but overall, physically, I am feeling great. I am diving, running, jogging, batting and it's really great to be normal again. There were doubts if I could play again with a heart condition but I didn't lose hope.

"I stopped thinking about cricket for some time and focused on regaining a healthy life first. It was tough but the recovery has been great with all the extensive rehabilitation."

Abid had to undergo an extensive rehabilitation programme and wait for months to get clearance from doctors to play again.

Cardiac surgeons, after several tests, diagnosed that Abid was suffering from "acute coronary syndrome", which, in simple terms, means there was blockage of blood flow in his heart.

He was batting on 61 for Central Punjab against Khyber Pakhtunkhwa at the UBL complex when the team manager rushed him to the hospital after he complained of chest pain and uneasiness in his shoulder.

"I am not sure what is the status of my national selection right now but I am fully set for my comeback," Abid said.

"For now, I started with the shorter format by playing three-four games in the Ramzan tournament in Faisalabad and it went well." Earlier this week, he appeared in a local T20 league match in Faisalabad and scored a half-century.

"These two games have given me confidence to revive my cricketing career. This is just the start and I am working hard on my fitness to stay in contention for selection.

"I need to work very hard to catch up on the lost time and I am quite hopeful that I will be able to achieve that. I still have a lot of cricket left in me and I don't want to sit back. Cricket has been my life."

Stokes Backs Root's Decision To Quit England Captaincy

Reuters

LONDON: Ben Stokes has backed Joe Root to continue his run-scoring spree with the bat, offering his England team mate "nothing but love, respect and support" after his decision to quit test captaincy.

Root stepped down last week, saying the job had taken a heavy toll on him recently, after dispiriting tours of Australia and the Caribbean capped a string of poor results.

The 31-year-old Root is England's second-highest test run-scorer of all time, behind Alastair Cook. His tally of 5,295 runs as skipper is the highest by an England captain. He scored 1,708 test runs in 2021, including six test centuries.

"Now that he has stood down, I fully expect him to continue his brilliance with a bat in hand and show why he is the greatest batsman we've ever produced," all-rounder Stokes wrote in a column for the Daily Mirror.

"We are lucky to have him and he's still got so much to offer English cricket."

Stokes thanked Root for his support as captain, saying their relationship went "deeper and further" than just team mates and they have been "good friends" for a long time. Stokes said Root called him to inform of his decision.

"As you can imagine it was quite an emotional conversation, but it wasn't a long chat, there will be time for that in the future," he continued.
