Press Trust Of India

Jammu: BJP president J P Nadda is reaching here Sunday on a daylong tour to discuss and finalise the party's Lok Sabha poll strategy for Jammu and Kashmir, a party leader said.

Nadda will begin his tour by paying obeisance at the historic Raghunath temple in the heart of the city before chairing a meeting of senior members led by J-K BJP president Ravinder Raina at the party headquarters here.

National General Secretary, incharge J&K, Tarun Chugh will also attend the meeting along with both Member Parliaments from J&K - Union Minister Jitendra Singh and Jugal Kishore Sharma - who have won Udhampur and Jammu seats twice for the party, respectively.

The leader quoted above said the meeting is likely to finalise the party's candidates for the Lok Sabha elections based on an internal survey report which was recently submitted to Nadda and Home Minister Amit Shah.

The focus of the meeting would be to finalise the party strategy to counter the INDIA bloc which has hinted of putting up joint candidates against the BJP, he said.

The meeting will also discuss Prime Minister Narendra Modi's visit to Jammu and Kashmir later this month or in early February, the leader said. He said Nadda is also scheduled to hold a separate meeting with J&K BJP president and General Secretary (Organisation) Ashok Koul before returning to Delhi.

Water Bodies Freeze Over, Min Temp Dips to -5.4°C in Srinagar

Press Trust Of India

Srinagar: A thin layer of ice formed on the surface of the Dal Lake here and other water bodies in Kashmir as cold wave-like conditions gripped the region, officials said on Saturday. The minimum temperature in several parts of the valley dropped below the minus 4 degrees Celsius mark on Friday night.

Kashmir is currently under the grip of "Chilla-i-Kalan", a 40-day harsh winter period, when a cold wave sweeps the region and temperatures drop considerably leading to the freezing of water bodies as well as water in pipes.

The chances of snowfall are the highest during this period and most areas, particularly the higher reaches, receive heavy snowfall.

Srinagar city recorded a minimum temperature of minus 5.4 degrees Celsius on Friday night, down from minus 3 degrees Celsius recorded on the previous night, the officials said.

They said Qazigund recorded a low of minus 4.6 degrees Celsius, while in the ski resort of Gulmarg in north Kashmir it was 4.5 degrees Celsius on Friday night, a notch down from the minimum temperature recorded the previous night.

Unveiling The Comprehensive City Action Plan

What Steps Is Srinagar Taking For A Climate-Resilient Future?

Auqib Javeed

Srinagar: Installing solar power plants (SPP), replacing diesel gensets, adopting Street Lighting National Programme (SLNP) and UJALA schemes for lighting, promoting the use of electric vehicles (EV), establishing a strong public transport (PT) system, and enhancing green cover are the steps authorities will be taking to mitigate climate change and increase climate resilience in Srinagar.

This was revealed by a Climate Resilient City Action Plan (CRCAP) for Srinagar city, prepared by the Department of Ecology, Environment, and Remote Sensing, Government of Jammu and Kashmir in association with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP). This initiative is in collaboration with Taru Leading Edge Pvt. Ltd. and Vasudha Foundation.

This draft marks the inaugural framework for the CRCAP and maintains that the CRCAP is committed to a net zero and climate-resilient Srinagar by 2050.

Mindful of the consequences of climate change to future generations living in Srinagar and its region, the CRCAP recognizes that actions must be prioritised across four sectors - power, energy and habitat sector; sustainable transport; agriculture and green spaces; waste management. The actions identified in each sector are framed on four pillars of success.

The CRCAP report estimated greenhouse gas emissions, identified vulnerability hotspots, understood critical infrastructure systems with respect to resilience, and developed specific climate change mitigation and adaptation plans, while also promoting sustainable development.

The CRCAP for Srinagar typically includes a thorough analysis of climate change risks, identifying priority areas for action, and developing action plans that include specific measures to boost the resilience and adaptive capacity of Srinagar city.

After 3 Decades, Hymns Reverberate Hindu Temple In Srinagar

Observer News Service

Srinagar: For the first time in the last three decades, the hymns and Bhajans reverberated with Anandeshwar Bhairav Mandir in Maisuma area of Srinagar where devotees commemorate the birth anniversary of Anandishwar by performing the Pooja.

During a special ceremony, the Pooja Havan ritual was performed, filling the peaceful surroundings with a strong sense of holiness and deep respect.

The Anandishwar Bhairav Mandir witnessed the resumption of Pooja Havan ritual after a lengthy interval of three decades.

The event unfolded on the eve of Anandishwar's birth anniversary, drawing devotees from far and wide to partake in the moment.

Sharing his elation, a care-taker from Mandir, said that after 32 years, they have reopened the revered Anandishwar Bhairav Mandir here in Maisuma. "This mandir is renowned as Anandishwar Bharav or Bharav Mandir," he said, adding, that "we have extended invitations to more than 100 to 200 individuals today, as we celebrate its re-awakening after a hiatus of 32 years."

People who worship there and from the locality were happy about the revival of this special place, as they enjoyed being part of the important rituals that they had been waiting for, making it a big moment in the history of the temple.

"After 32 years, we reopened the temple here in Maisuma. We invited many people today, marking its opening once again after a long time," said Heera Lal Koul, a local resident.

Moreover, the evening witnessed a collective fervor and jubilation as devotees departed, carrying with them the blessings and sanctity garnered from this historic celebration, cherishing the rekindling of age-old traditions at the Anandishwar Bhairav Mandir—(KNO)

Major Drug Haul 765 Kits Of 'Abortifacient Drugs' Worth 3.5L Seized At Srinagar Airport

Majid Nabi

Srinagar: A large consignment of drugs worth 3.50 lakh rupees used to 'abort' fetuses illegally was seized at the Srinagar Airport on Saturday, officials said.

The seizure, according to the Assistant Drug Controller Kashmir, Nighat Jabeen, was made on a tip off about the illicit importation of drugs used for terminating fetuses "illegally" into the Kashmir valley.

Speaking to the media here, Jabeen said the shipment, worth Rs. 3.50 lakh, was sized at the Srinagar airport by the Drug Control Department Kashmir. She said the department seized several such consignments in the past as well.

"The drugs worth 3.5 lakh rupees used to terminate fetuses were seized at the Srinagar Airport by the joint team of Drug Control Kashmir and Excise Departments. A thorough investigation has been taken up to unmask those who pumped these drugs into Kashmir illegally," said Jabeen.

Elaborating, Jabeen said some individuals—who have not yet been identified—had actually ordered the 765 kits of Mifepristone Tablets and IP and Misoprostol IP using fictitious licenses.

"Their identity is being ascertained as investigation into the instant case is on. We have seized many such consignments in past as well. Actually smugglers using licenses of bonafide pharmaceutical distributors carryout these illegal activities," she added.

These drugs, she said, are misused to abort fetuses. Smugglers either use fictitious licenses or misuse licenses of legitimate distributors to import these drugs into the valley.

Regarding online sale of drugs in Kashmir, she said the department forbids drug online sales in Kashmir and that they promptly take legal action upon becoming aware of any such incidence.

In response to another question on the role of drug dealers in distributing drugs used to abort fetuses, she replied, "Drug dealers and distributors have no involvement whatsoever in the process. Importing these pharmaceuticals into the valley is really encouraged by certain anonymous people using fictitious licenses or licenses of the bonafide pharmaceutical distributors.

"This timely intervention has prevented the illegal circulation of these sensitive medicines within the Union Territory," Deputy Drugs Controller, Kashmir said.

Abortifacient kits are prescription drugs requiring specialized medical supervision for safe and responsible use. Unauthorized possession and sale of these drugs pose serious health risks to women and undermine established medical protocols.

The seized consignment is currently under investigation, and efforts are underway to identify the sender and intended recipient. Legal action will be initiated against all parties involved, as per the provisions of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940.

"This operation highlights the effective collaboration between the Drug Control Department and the Excise Department in safeguarding public health from the dangers of illegal drug trafficking," Nighat Shah further emphasized.

"We remain committed to cracking down on such illegal activities and ensuring the safe and ethical distribution of all drugs within the Union Territory," she added.

The Drug Control Department urges the public to be vigilant and report any suspected instances of illegal drug activity to the nearest authorities. By working together, we can create a safer and healthier environment for all citizens.

Delete Sindh Add Kashmir To 'Jan Gan Man'?

Supreme Court Serves Notice To Government On National Anthem

Agencies

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court Thursday sought the government's response to a petition seeking the deletion of the word "Sindh", now a part of Pakistan from India's national anthem and replace it with the word "Kashmir".

A bench comprising Chief Justice R. C. Lahoti and Judge G.P. Mathur issued notice to the government in response to public interest litigation filed by Sanjeev Bhatnagar, a scientist and speed skating champion who represented India in the Asian Games.

In September, the court while rejecting his plea had given the petitioner the liberty to draw the government's attention to this and then approach the court if no action was taken.

According to the petitioner, who is also an advocate, approached the court stating that the inclusion of the word Sindh in the national anthem was an infringement on the sovereignty of Pakistan.

The inclusion of the word in the anthem for the past 54 years had also hurt the feelings of over one billion people in India, he claimed.

Bhatnagar said the petition was being filed to avoid any future international dispute as such "flaws" in the anthem could bring dishonour and disrespect to the nation.

He sought a direction for the deletion of the word Sindh from the anthem and its substitution with the word Kashmir. In response to his representation, the home ministry replied the anthem was adopted by the Constituent Assembly Jan 24, 1950. At that time, Sindh had become a part of Pakistan and therefore the assembly was conscious of this fact.

"The word Sindh refers not mere to the province of Sindh but also to the Sindh culture which is an inalienable part of the rich and diverse culture of India," the home ministry said.

"Moreover, the contribution of Sindh people in the making of modern India has been extremely noteworthy and cannot be overlooked. It may not therefore be appropriate to delete the word Sindh from the national anthem.

"Former deputy prime minister and senior Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leader Advani is a member of the Sindh community.

(KASHMIR OBSERVER, 07 January, 2005)

The changes in the 19th century in Europe had not only led to the emergence of industrialization, but the process of rationalization overtook the socio-political landscapes as never seen before. Thereafter, the advent of sovereign states and the emergence of new laws gave rise to new dynamics of Colonialist-colonized dichotomy. In the 21st Century, Old laws became obsolete and new laws were framed however, there had always been some political and ideological interests behind the door. Some thinkers saw the law in a utilitarian framework while others found it in the brackets of 'habitual command' necessary to be followed. In the same vein, recently in India, the government claims to have streamlined the criminal major laws in the country by replacing the existing Penal Code, Criminal Procedure Code and The Evidence Act with Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS), Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS) and Bharatiya Sakshya Adhinyam (BSA). This act has started another debate in the context of colonialist-colonized framework. The legal intellectuals and experts present dissimilar viewpoints on the same, while some welcomed the new criminal law as post-colonial and Indianized in essence, others presented them as variegated pictures with patches or re-colonizing laws in modern attire. Common people, usually unfamiliar with legal technicalities although exhibited a silent approach against these laws so far, but the driver community has sent shockwaves to the entire country by calling strikes and colossal protests against the new hit-and-run law introduced by section 106(2) of the BNS. Truck, Bus, and Taxi drivers believe that the new hit-and-run law is more draconian and stringent as it would discriminately victimize the drivers.

Understanding this law and dispelling the fear
Section 106 of the BNS provides punishment for a death caused by a rash or negligent act. While subsection 1 provides the punishment of imprisonment of up to 5 years and a fine, on the other side section 106 (2) provides enhanced imprisonment of up to 10 years and a fine in the case where a person after causing death by rash and negligent driving escapes the place of occurrence without informing the police or magistrate. Widely known as hit-and-run law this provision has replaced earlier Penal law which provided imprisonment of up to 2 years for causing the death of any person by rash or negligent act. The offence was bailable under the old law but the new criminal law BNS has made this offence more severe by making it non-bailable and imposing stringent punishment. Though this law is still to come into force, it has caught the attention of drivers throughout the country. Believing it as discriminatory and unreasonable drivers apprehend that this law is likely to be misused against them, thus victimizing them even without their being any fault. This fear constrained them to call strikes and hold long demonstrations against the hit-and-run law. The enhanced punishment under section 106 (2) is not attracted where the driver informs the police or magistrate about the occurrence, in that case, section 106(1) applies which provides a punishment of up to 5 years with a fine only. The enhanced punishment is not applicable even in non-serious accidental cases, where no death is caused. However, the drivers apprehend that people around the occurrence place respond to the accidents impulsively and are adverse to them, which may even cause physical and mental torture. This apprehension though justifiable cannot be an excuse to get a free hand for an act which is itself an offence.

Why the strict hit-and-run law is needed
Stringent punishment for serious accident cases can be viewed as a

“The hit-and-run law in its present form is susceptible to ambiguities and interpretational conjuncture. There seems an absence of reasonable nexus between the gravity of failure to inform authorities and the severity of punishment provided for it. Escaping without reporting cannot be taken as grave as the substantive offence of causing death by rash and negligent driving, thus mere failure to inform the police should hardly warrant a fine or imprisonment of up to a few months markable move by the Centre because the old laws did not provide adequate punishment for the offence of death by rash and negligent driving. Law

Commission in its 234th report had recommended 10 years of rigorous imprisonment for the offence of causing death by rash/reckless driving. In the same report, the commission also recommended a minimum imprisonment of 2 years for causing death by driving under the influence of liquor. A report titled 'Road Accidents in India-2022' released by the Ministry Of Road Transport and Highways shows a huge surge in the number of accidental fatalities in 2022. Over 1.5 lac people died and around 4.5 lac suffered injuries due to accidents. The major causes of such accidents were rash/negligent driving, driving under the influence of alcohol/ intoxicating drugs, over speeding, driving on the wrong side/ lane of the road, jumping a red light and using of mobile phone while driving. Hit-and-run law in its present form may prove to be a golden law in combating the terror of reckless driving. It exhibits a deterrent approach towards carelessness and negligent driving, which in turn would check the menace of hit-and-run cases. It will boost the speedier investigation of serious accident cases, identification and apprehension of the accused as well as immediate assistance to the victim. Furthermore, it aids Section 134(2) of the Motor Vehicle Amendment Act 2019 which imposes a duty on the driver of a vehicle involved in an accident to report the circumstances of occurrence to the nearest police station.

Challenges surrounding this law

The hit-and-run law in its present form is susceptible to ambiguities and interpretational conjuncture. There seems an absence of reasonable nexus between the gravity of failure to inform authorities and the severity of punishment provided for it. Escaping without reporting cannot be taken as grave as the substantive offence of causing death by rash and negligent driving, thus mere failure to inform the police should hardly warrant a fine or imprisonment of up to a few months. The provision would be subjected to multiple interpretations. It stipulates information to concerned authorities after the accident, but how? Is the driver supposed to go to the police station or the magistrate in person and inform them about the occurrence or mere telecommunication or other instant modes of communication will suffice? In the latter case to escape the enhanced punishment, the accused would just hit a call to police about the occurrence and leave the spot, thus defeating the purpose of this provision. Again expecting the Instant information to police after the accident by the accused is obscure for the reason that the person's mental health at the time accident is affected severely. The aftershock and mental trauma to the Accused at the occurrence should have been taken into contemplation by the legislature and limited time say 12 or 24 hours should have been allowed him to inform the police station or a magistrate. Furthermore, the driver is bound to inform the police or magistrate before leaving the spot only where death is caused. What if a person survives and only grievous hurt or simple hurt is caused? He can flee the spot without informing the authorities. This shows a huge discrepancy in the law which makes it subject to reconsideration.

A Slightly Rosier Picture

There could be a marginally downward bias to the first advance GDP estimate of 7.3% for FY24. Actual growth could tilt towards 7%.

Madan Sabnavis

The first advance estimates of the gross domestic product (GDP) for FY24 needs to be interpreted with caution. With nine months in the year having passed and official data existing for the months up to November, taking a call on the full year is based on extrapolations. In fact, since the value added numbers for some sectors like manufacturing are based on the first two quarters information, there also is the assumption of persistence of trends, which may not always hold. Therefore the growth rate of 7.3% for the year should be seen more as a forecast rather than an estimate.

The question then would be: Is there any value in bringing out such information? In fact, towards the end of February, the second advance estimates will be brought out by the government. This would be more data-driven than extrapolation, and could be different from what has been projected this time.

There would be information for two more months, taking it closer to the mark. The answer is that such an estimate is required not from the academic standpoint but for drawing up the Union Budget. Ever since the Budget has been moved to February 1, having some estimate of GDP in absolute terms has become imperative for the finance ministry.

The Budget is based on an assumption of growth in the GDP as all tax revenues are juxtaposed against this number. While a projection for FY25 can be based on the ministry's conjecture—which normally tends to be conservative, the base for FY24 needs to be there. This is where this advance estimate fits in. It also means that the Budget is based on two GDP numbers in nominal

“The trade, transport, communications, hotels, etc, segment has slowed down to 6.3%, which is more due to the high-base syndrome (its growth was 14% last year). This is one segment that still sees vestiges of the pent-up demand, with people spending a lot of money in all these segments.

terms which are forecasts rather than true numbers. Hence, even though this number will change, there is some value to this number as there has to be an indicative number.

Prima facie, one could have expected a high GDP growth number, and hence, 7.3% does not come as a surprise as it is higher than the RBI forecast of 7%. This had to happen as the first two quarters registered growth of 7.8% and 7.6%, and any extrapolation would mean replication of the same—which, in turn, provides an upward bias to the estimate. It is also not surprising that most of the growth rates look healthy as they gel with the official numbers released for various sectors till November, which is the latest data available on most indicators.

Manufacturing is to grow by 6.5%, and, here, the bulk is accounted for the organised sector where profit-and-loss (P&L) accounts of companies are used. For the unorganised sector, the Index of Industrial Production (IIP) is used, which has also been high due to the base effect.

Mining has grown by 8.1% and money in all these segments.

Ideally, a higher number would have been expected as the buoyancy remains even today if one goes by the proxies used. The finance and real estate segment has grown by 8.9%, which is in line with the high growth in deposits and credit in the banking system. The government sector has shown stability, at 7.7%, which in alignment with the accounts released till November.

The only disappointment—and this bears out in the real world—is agriculture, which is to slow down to 1.8%. In fact, this was to grow by 3-3.5%, but the kharif output has disappointed and it does look like that rabi harvest would also be lower this year as the sowing in wheat and chana are lagging. This can be attributed to the less-than-normal monsoon and the low reservoir levels seen at present.

The investment scene, as indicated by the gross fixed capital formation rate, needs to also be looked at with caution as it has increased from 29.2% to 29.8%.

But other proxies such as growth in bank credit to large industry or bond issues (which are basically by finance companies) do not support the theory that investment is booming. It can be assumed that this has come out of higher government capex, with the states not fully supporting this trend. It is possible that there could be some moderation going forward.

As the GDP data is based on extrapolations, an interesting feature which emerges is that consumption in nominal terms has grown by 8.7%, which is less than the GST collections rate for first nine months that was in double digits (11.7%). This can see some upward movement when the final numbers are out as the two should move together once the economies of better compliance are exhausted.

On the whole, it does look like that there could be downward bias to the estimate and growth will tilt towards the 7% number. There is likely to be a slow-down in corporate profits growth and affect segments where these proxies are used. But this will be a good base for the government to use when planning the Budget and estimating the revenues to be garnered.

My Tryst With Chestnut Trees

Peer Mohammad Amir Qureshi

In the sanctuary of my abode, cocooned beneath a cozy blanket with the gentle embrace of a room heater, I delved into the pages of a book. Suddenly, the symphony of solitude was interrupted by the melodious hum of my phone. Retrieving it from my pocket, I discovered a call from my dear friend Adil Rehman, beckoning me to join him with a swift promise. I ventured towards an orchard where we used to meet. As I approached the designated meeting point, a captivating scene unfolded before me—a cluster of exuberant children besieging a majestic chestnut tree. The chestnuts are the deciduous trees of the genus Castanea. They fervently pelted pebbles at the treasure-laden branches, where the “Punjab Gaer,” or chestnuts, hung. Encased within prickly husks, these chestnuts were delicately gathered by some children, each cradling nature’s bounty in their laps. Witnessing this nostalgic tableau, memories of my own youthful escapades flooded back. I reminisced about the two chestnut trees that graced my village, a rarity in the precincts of district Ganderbal. The lore persisted that these venerable chestnut trees were planted by Haji Ghulam rasool of Habbakadal Srinagar, a legacy enduring for at least seven decades. As per the wisdom passed down by the elders of my native village, there was a time when a playground graced the landscape, a gathering place for children from the surrounding area. In those early days, the roots of the two chestnut trees were planted. However, the passage of time ushered in change, transforming the terrain into an orchard adorned with apple and various plum trees. Eventually, the orchard changed hands, finding a new proprietor in Nowshera Srinagar. The custodianship of the garden transitioned to the capable hands of the “Gujjars,” who not only tended to their cattle but also nurtured the flourishing orchard.

Holly Stapleton/Grist

These twin chestnut arbors grace the roadside, standing as silent sentinels. Interestingly, the custodians of the adjacent orchard never voiced objections to the seasonal tradition of gathering the coveted chestnuts, fondly known as “Punjab Gaer.” In my personal contemplation, these chestnut trees were nothing short of a benevolent offering to the entire village. As autumn unfolded its vibrant hues and the chill of winter lingered, the bountiful fruits adorned the branches, drawing

AS AUTUMN UNFOLDED ITS VIBRANT HUES AND THE CHILL OF WINTER LINGERED, THE BOUNTIFUL FRUITS ADORNED THE BRANCHES, DRAWING CHILDREN LIKE MAGNETS. This communal treasure was freely accessible, existing within the public domain, devoid of any prohibitions imposed by the orchard’s watchful guardians children like magnets. This communal treasure was freely accessible, existing within the public domain, devoid of any prohibitions imposed by the orchard’s watchful guardians. The recollection remains vivid – with Gowhar by my side, we would frequent the orchard, eagerly assessing the ripening of chestnuts. Patiently awaiting the perfect moment, we watched as the trees transformed. However, one fateful year, our anticipation led to disappointment – the branches bore no fruit for us as they were plucked by other children of our village and we had to wait for one year. Usually it bore fruits during the departure of the “Bakerwals” to Jammu, leaving their dormant kitchens by the orchard, where they typically cooked on traditional “Daanbur.” Undeterred, we ventured to open the chestnuts nestled in spiky husks, gathering straws to ignite the “Daanbur.” The crackling sound of chestnuts bursting into a flavorful blaze was a joyous symphony. Anyone traversing the road couldn’t resist joining our endeavor, captivated by the enchanting taste of chestnut. Little ones, especially, were fervent followers, drawn into the allure of those mesmerizing chestnuts. Regrettably, a few years ago, the guardian of that cherished shop axed the branches of those two chestnut trees. The intrusion of children, throwing pebbles, irked the new custodians. Today, the once abundant and delectable chestnuts have dwindled both in quality and quantity, a poignant reflection of changing times and the altered custodianship of that precious orchard. The shifting sands of time and the evolving nature of people serve as a stark reminder. There’s a looming apprehension that the hands of progress might fell those venerable trees in the future. Yet, the indelible memories woven with those trees persist, eternally fresh in our minds, akin to a conversation held just yesterday. May the yet unborn generation savor the essence of those chestnuts, cultivating a connection with the past that transcends the passage of time.

PARENTING WITH EMPATHY

How to foster intelligence in kids

Tanya Mehra

Parenting is a journey filled with joy, challenges, and responsibilities. As parents, we strive to raise our children to become intelligent, compassionate, and successful individuals. One powerful approach to nurturing a child’s development is through parenting with empathy.

In this article, we will explore the significance of empathy in parenting and discuss effective strategies to foster intelligence in kids. By embracing empathy and implementing these techniques, you can create a nurturing environment that stimulates your child’s intellectual growth and emotional well-being.

Parenting with empathy – A key to success

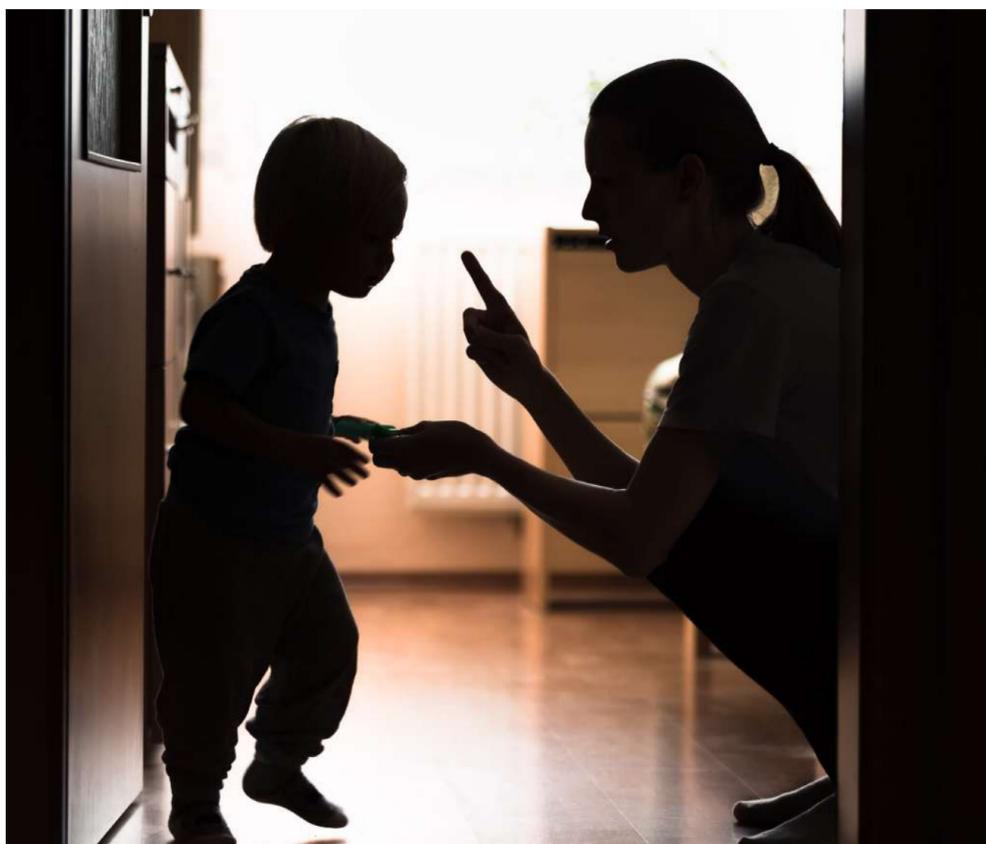

Parenting with empathy involves understanding and sharing the feelings of your child. It goes beyond mere sympathy and allows you to connect with their experiences on a deeper level. By cultivating empathy, you can establish a strong emotional bond with your child, fostering trust, security, and open communication. This emotional connection serves as the foundation for developing intelligence, resilience, and self-esteem in children.

The power of active listening

One of the fundamental aspects of parenting with empathy is active listening. When you truly listen to your child, you validate their emotions and demonstrate your genuine interest in their thoughts and feelings. By maintaining eye contact, using non-verbal cues, and providing undivided attention, you create a safe space for your child to express themselves freely. This practice not only enhances your understanding of their needs but also nurtures their self-expression and self-confidence.

Encouraging Emotional Intelligence

Emotional intelligence is a vital skill that empowers children to recognize, understand, and manage their emotions effectively. By encouraging emotional intelligence, parents can help their kids develop the essential life skills needed to navigate through various challenges. To foster emotional intelligence in your child, consider the following strategies:

- ▶ Label and Acknowledge Emotions: Teach your child to identify and label different emotions. By acknowledging their feelings, you validate their experiences and teach them to express themselves in a healthy manner.
- ▶ Teach Problem-Solving Skills: Encourage your child to find solutions to their problems rather than providing immediate answers. This promotes critical thinking, creativity, and independence.

- ▶ Promote Empathy: Help your child understand the feelings and perspectives of others. Engage in discussions about empathy, kindness, and compassion to instill these values in their daily interactions.
- ▶ Model Emotional Regulation: Be a role model for emotional regulation by managing your own emotions effectively. Show your child healthy coping mechanisms and problem-solving strategies.

The role of play in cognitive development

Play is an essential component of a child’s cognitive development. It provides opportunities for creativity, problem-solving, and exploration. By engaging in play activities with your child, you can facilitate their intellectual growth while strengthening your bond. Consider incorporating the following play-based activities into your parenting routine:

- ▶ Pretend play: Encourage your child to engage in imaginative play, such as pretending to be a doctor, chef, or astronaut. This type of play promotes creativity, social skills, and cognitive flexibility.

- ▶ Building blocks: Provide your child with building blocks or construction sets. These activities enhance spatial awareness, problem-solving skills, and fine motor development.
- ▶ Puzzles and board games: Engage in puzzles and board games that challenge your child’s thinking and problem-solving abilities. These activities promote cognitive skills, strategic thinking, and perseverance.
- ▶ Sensory play: Sensory play involves activities that stimulate a child’s senses, such as touch, sight, smell, and sound. Providing sensory experiences through materials like sand, water, playdough, or sensory bins filled with rice or beans can enhance a child’s cognitive development. It helps them explore different textures, develop hand-eye coordination, and improve their ability to problem-solve and think creatively.
- ▶ Artistic expression: Encouraging children to engage in various art forms, such as drawing, painting, or sculpting, can contribute significantly to their cognitive development. Art activities promote fine motor skills, hand-eye coordination, and spatial awareness. They also encourage self-expression, imagination, and the ability to think outside the box.
- ▶ Memory games: Engaging children in memory games can have a positive impact on their cognitive abilities. Memory games involve the recall and recognition of information, which strengthens memory skills and improves concentration. Games like matching cards or recalling sequences of objects or events can enhance a child’s cognitive processing, attention span, and problem-solving skills.

A case was registered against the accused in 2020 following a complaint about embezzlement of Rs 1.64 crore out of the revenue collected as water charges in the city division, he added.

The police earlier arrested Nikhil Gandral, the then cashier at the Jal Shakti office here, and Inderpal Singh of Jammu and chargesheeted them in the case in March 2020.

According to officials, the revenue collected by the sub-divisional staff was deposited at the division headquarters with the accused cashier for its further remittance into the government treasury.

However, the cashier siphoned off Rs 1.64 crore and revealed that he had given the money to bookie Jatin, on the assurance that he would get double the amount in return, they said.

related to drone-dropping of weapons and money by a Pakistan-based module operating in J&K, the agency said.

The kingpin in the case, Faisal Muneer, was earlier arrested and charge-sheeted by the NIA, which found him to be involved in receiving weapon consignments sent from across the border by Sajjad Gul alias Hamza, the statement said.

The NIA said that after receiving the weapons, Muneer used to deliver them in Srinagar to Ganaie, who further distributed them to active cadres or terrorists of the TRF to carry out targeted killings to spread terror.

"The accused were also engaged in radicalising, motivating and instigating vulnerable youth to join TRF or LeT and other terror outfits in Kashmir.

"Besides arms and ammunition, NIA investigators had recovered several incriminating materials, including chats about terror funds, from the mobile phones of the accused persons," the agency said.

The NIA has established that the accused had been carrying out terrorist activities for a long time, thereby threatening the security, integrity and sovereignty of India, it added.

The agency had taken over the case initially registered by the Chanapora police station in May 2022 and re-registered it at the NIA's Jammu branch office on June 18, 2022.

The NIA intends to intensify its efforts to dismantle all terror networks and demolish their support infrastructure by attaching and seizing their properties in the coming days, the statement said.

What Steps

schemes and programmes that can support the intervention, funding sources, mitigation potential, indicators and measure outcomes are indicated.

The sectoral action plan focuses on power, energy and habitat sector, sustainable transport, agriculture and green spaces, and waste management as the key sectors for Srinagar city. The resilience interventions included in the action plan are informed by the baseline sectoral GHG emissions and identified climate vulnerabilities.

The team recommended a number of suggestions to save the city from Nature's wrath. The key intervention that needs to be taken, according to the researchers, include scaling up Renewable Energy (RE) generation by promoting rooftop and ground mounted installations of solar power plants (SPP) at households, institutions, government buildings, commercial buildings etc in the city.

It also suggested encouraging faster penetration of the Street Lighting National Programme (SLNP) and UJALA Scheme (Domestic Efficient Lighting Program), that will ensure all lighting fixtures are replaced with energy-efficient LED bulbs, tube lights and fans at domestic, public buildings and streetlights.

The report also recommended replacing Diesel gensets in residential, commercial, institutional sectors with solar powered or other storage options.

It further says that the government needs wide-scale adoption of Electric Vehicles (EV) by increasing share in private passenger vehicles (cars and 2 wheelers), public transport (buses, mini-buses), intermediate public transport (3 wheelers, e-rickshaws), delivery service fleets, vehicle fleets owned by government departments etc:

"Establish widespread EV charging infrastructure (at strategic locations such as commercial hubs, public parking, airport, railway station etc.) free/subsidized parking spaces," the report suggested.

The report further noted that a strong Public Transport (PT) and Intermediate Public Transport (IPT) network in the city would discourage use of private vehicles and help curb Greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions and traffic congestion. It focused on enhancing green cover by increasing trees outside forest and green spaces through measures such as setting up of urban parks, floating gardens etc.

"These steps will reduce GHG emissions, improve air quality, reduce traffic congestion and improve public health," the experts recommended.

J&K Blossoms: Le Figaro Chronicles The Enchanting Transformation Of Kashmir

SRINAGAR: In a striking turn of events, Jammu and Kashmir (J&K) experienced an unprecedented surge in tourism in 2023, welcoming a record-breaking 2 crore tourists. This surge, the highest in 77 years, is indicative of the positive transformation within the Union Territory over the past four years, resulting in increased employment opportunities and a thriving hotel industry. The cinematic allure of the region attracted over 100 film shoots in the last year alone, shining a spotlight on its captivating landscapes.

Recently, the renowned French newspaper, Le Figaro, presented a grand report on the evolving charm of Kashmir, describing it as a "Forgotten paradise" timidly opening up to foreign travelers after decades of conflict. The piece, by Bérénice Debras, portrays Srinagar as a haven of peace in the foothills of the Himalayas. The narrative unfolds at 5:30 in the morning on Dal Lake, where the day breaks in a veil of mist. The boat gracefully glides across the tranquil waters, surrounded by a serene silence. Time seemingly holds its breath, and birds whisper softly. The floating market comes to life as vegetable sellers engage in negotiations from one boat to another. The century-old tradition remains unchanged, with the aroma of traditional Kashmiri khawa wafting from a mobile samovar, providing an authentic experience.

A charismatic character, Mr. Wonderful Flowerman, takes center stage in the Le Figaro report. Draped in a pink sweater and a multicolored shirt, he embodies the essence of a Bollywood character. Negotiations for a bouquet at a 'golden price' lead to a unique condition – a visit to Mr. Wonderful Flowerman's father's floating gardens where the plants are cultivated. The journey to an islet on Nigeen Lake unveils the patriarch's lament for the end of the season, accompanied by a glimpse into his daughters' papier-mâché box painting in a rickety wooden cabin.

As the Le Figaro report concludes, it beautifully captures J&K's journey from a conflict-ridden past to a blossoming present. The once-forgotten paradise is portrayed as reclaiming its position on the world stage, signifying a renewed era of enchantment and allure.

J&K Leaders Question Decision To Lease Out Electricity To Rajasthan

Press Trust Of India

SRINAGAR: Party leaders in Jammu and Kashmir on Saturday questioned the administration's decision to lease out electricity from the Rattle Power Project in Kishtwar to Rajasthan, pointing out that the Union Territory is itself facing a "severe power crisis".

Rattle Hydro Electric Power Corporation Limited (RHPCL), a joint venture between the NHPC Limited and JKSPDC, has entered into a Power Purchase Agreement (PPA) with the Rajasthan Urja Vikas and IT Services Limited for 850 MW sourcing from the project in Kishtwar.

Peoples Democratic Party (PDP) chief Mehbooba Mufti on Saturday said supplying electricity to Rajasthan from the Rattle Project would "rob" the people of Jammu and Kashmir.

"At a time when J&K is facing a severe power crisis never witnessed before our hydro electric resources are being outsourced to other states. Yet another decision that will rob people of basic amenities with an intention to collectively punish the inhabitants of J&K," the PDP chief posted on X.

The agreement has been signed for off-take of power for a period of 40 years from the Commercial Operation Date (COD) of the project and as per power allocation to be notified by the Union Ministry of Power.

The PPA was signed in Jaipur on January 3 in the presence of senior officers of the RHPCL and Rajasthan Urja Vikas and IT Services Limited.

Meanwhile, Apni Party president Altaf Bukhari said the decision to lease out electricity to Rajasthan was puzzling.

"At a time when the entire Jammu and Kashmir is facing an acute electricity crisis, especially in its rural areas, the reported leasing out of electricity from Rattle Power Project Kishtwar to Rajasthan is quite puzzling," Bukhari said in a post on X.

He said the J-K administration should come clear on the facts.

"The J&K administration has off and on come on record claiming that it has been buying the power supply from other states to meet the demands in the Union Territory, while at the same time leasing out its own supply to another state is beyond comprehension. Urge the J&K admin to come clear on the facts," Bukhari's post added.

Australia Win 2023 ODI World Cup

Australia won the Cricket World Cup for a record-extending sixth time in November, ending India's dominant run in its home tournament with a six-wicket victory in a low-scoring final on the back of Travis Head's 137.

A heavily pro-Indian crowd inside the 132,000-capacity Narendra Modi Stadium was silenced as Head combined with Marnus Labuschagne (58 not out) in a 192-run partnership to chase down the target of 241.

Australia was wobbling on 47-3 after seven overs but Head and Labuschagne dug in to help their country regain its status as the king of one-day international cricket, adding to its 50-over world titles in 1987, 1999, 2003, 2007 and 2015.

Head was dismissed off what proved to be the next-to-last ball of the match, caught in the deep while attempting to hit a title-clinching boundary.

In came Glenn Maxwell and he ran two off his first ball, securing a victory that prompted fireworks above the world's largest cricket venue.

The Indians won all 10 of their matches before the final and were seeking a third trophy in their fourth appearance in a title match that brought a country of 1.4 billion people to a virtual standstill. They were outplayed in every department by Australia, though, restricted to 240 all out on a slow pitch after losing the toss with only Virat Kohli (54) and Lokesh Rahul (66) making half-centuries.

Head became only the fifth player to score a century in a men's World Cup final – and third Australian after Ricky Ponting and Adam Gilchrist – and delivered a significant moment in India's innings when taking a diving catch running back from cover to remove captain Rohit Sharma (47).

Australia finished the tournament with a run of nine straight wins, after starting with back-to-back defeats to India and South Africa.

India Demolish Sri Lanka To Lift Asia Cup 2023 Title

Mohammed Siraj conjured a magical spell of seam and swing bowling with magnificent figures of 6 for 21 as India crushed Sri Lanka by 10 wickets to lift the Asia Cup title after a gap of five years.

This was India's eighth Asia Cup title and also their biggest victory (263 balls) in ODIs in terms of balls remaining.

Siraj's astonishing effort saw defending champions Sri Lanka getting bundled out for 50. India did not bat an eyelid in the chase, as Shubman Gill (27) and Ishan Kishan (23) did the job in just 6.1 overs.

This was India's first title in a multi-nation event after their triumph in the Asia Cup 2018, and in a way, it also exorcised the ghost of India's 54 all out against Lanka in the Coca Cola Champions Trophy at Sharjah in 2000.

The match at Premadasa, forever, will be remembered for the way Siraj reduced the Lankan top-order to mere puppets of his sorcery.

Perhaps, he was des-tinued to have a day like this, said the Hyderabad.

"Jitna naseeb mein hota hai wahi milta, aaj mera naseeb tha (You get what's in our destiny, today it was my destiny)," Siraj summed up the mood while talking to broadcasters in the mid-innings break.

It all started with Lanka electing to bat first after winning the toss, despite heavily overcast conditions.

The match started 40 minutes after the scheduled 3 PM beginning, but a storm of a different kind was awaiting Sri Lanka a peak Siraj.

His spell ensured that Lanka batted just 15.2 overs, and this was also their lowest ODI total against India.

The pacer became only the fourth bowler in ODI history to take four wickets in an over, and he matched former Lankan pacer Chaminda Vaas as the fastest to a five-wicket haul in one-dayers in just 16 deliveries.

Siraj also obliterated the best ODI figures against Sri Lanka, previously held by Pakistan pace legend Waqar Younis 6 for 26 at Sharjah in 1990.
